JAPANESE NAVAL AIRPLANE FORCES OPERATE HEAVILY

Attempting To Blast Out Chinese Defenders 30 Miles Above Kiukiang

'VOLUNTARY EVACUATION' OF FOREIGNERS SOUGHT

Nipponese Rushing 20,000 Troops For Land Activities In Zone

SHANGHAI, July 9.—(AP)—Japanese naval officers said today their "heavily operating" air forces were attempting to blast out Chinese defenders 30 miles above Kiukiang on the Yangtze river.

Stationed at Kiukiang, 135 miles below the provisional capital of Hankow, where the United States gunboat Monocacy and the British gunboat Cockchafer, remaining to protect their nationals despite Chinese and Japanese warnings of dangerous, thickly-mined waters.

The bombing operations followed by a few hours a Japanese note to foreign powers urging "voluntary evacuation" of an eighty-mile area, from Kiukiang to Hwangshihkang, marked out for an intensified battleground.

Japanese announced they were rushing 20,000 troops for land operations in the zone.

The Chinese warning last Thursday said new booms across the river were being built 30 miles above Kiukiang, but Japanese said they understood there was a channel through the obstructions and mine fields if the gunboats wished to withdraw.

Japanese admitted Chinese air raids on warships and troop concentrations above Anking were continuing, but contended the raids were ineffective. They said three Chinese bombers were shot down by anti-aircraft guns.

Chinese reported a victory at Huanmutang, where they said Japanese lost

J. LESTER WHITE ARRIVES IN CITY

Planning Commission Chairman To Preside At Important Meeting Monday

J. Lester White, state planning commission chairman, arrived in Monroe for a week-end visit and will hold an important meeting on Hotel Virginia roof Monday at 10 a.m., when he desires to meet public officials of cities and towns of the fifth congressional district, where loans or grants are sought from the federal government for the benefit of their respective communities. This is in accord with the federal spending program and many members of school boards, police juries and municipality officials are desirous of knowing just how to proceed to obtain required funds.

Mr. White will show in detail how this is to be done according to governmental requirements and for this reason it is expected that there will be a large number who will attend the Monday morning session.

Besides holding the meeting in the morning, Mr. White will remain at Hotel Virginia all day Monday for the holding of private conferences with those who may seek personal advice as to loans.

He will leave Tuesday noon for Shreveport, where he is scheduled to hold a similar meeting at 2 p.m. that day.

Up to last Saturday, the planning commission had received 70 applications since June 4 and all had been forwarded to the federal offices for consideration. These projects aggregate in excess of $8,000,000 on which an average of 50 per cent participation is requested of the government.

All applications for PWA projects, Chairman White informs, must be submitted by September 30. Another provision requires that all work must be started not later than by January 1, 1939.

LARGE INSURANCE JUDGMENT REVERSED

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—(AP)—The United States fifth circuit court of appeals today reversed a lower court judgment which awarded $43,485.71 to Homer Jones of Grapeland, Tex., against the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company for cotton destroyed by fire while stored in Jones' warehouse.

The circuit court ruled that the lower court was in error in awarding recovery to Jones on the grounds that the policy did not properly describe location of the warehouse and that Jones failed to keep records and make reports to the insurance company as required by provisions of the policy.

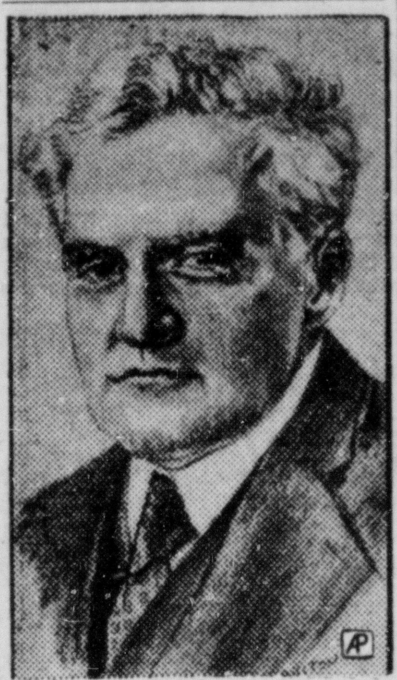
JUSTICE DIES



BENJAMIN N. CARDOZO

SUPREME JUSTICE CARDOZO EXPIRES

Roosevelt Administration Loses One Of Best Friends In Court

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration lost one of its best friends in court by the death of Supreme Court Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

Cardozo, appointed to the high tribunal by President Hoover, voted 22 times to support New Deal sponsored laws. In only five cases did he turn against Roosevelt-favored enactments, and in those instances the court's decisions were unanimous.

Cardozo shunned legal technicalities, contending that the "law does not stand upon punctilious."

The frail, soft-spoken scholar was appointed to the court by President Hoover on February 15, 1932, to succeed the late Oliver Wendell Holmes, another famous "liberal." He came to the supreme court bench from the chief judgeship of the New York state court of appeals.

He was the second member of the Jewish race to sit on the supreme tribunal. The first was Justice Louis D. Brandeis, appointed in 1916 by President Wilson.

Cardozo's written opinions were noted for their crystalline clarity and beauty of expression.

A bachelor, he had few social contacts. While in Washington he lived in almost monastic seclusion.

Before he began his service here one of the expressions heard most frequently in the supreme courtroom was: "Holmes, Brandeis and Stone dissenting."

That promptly changed to: "Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo dissenting."

The trio formed a "liberal" block that disagreed with many of the opinions of their colleagues.

But during the term that began in October, 1936, they found themselves in a majority with Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Roberts. Their views prevailed henceforth in most cases involving administration legislation and activities.

The five anti-administration votes cast by the 67-year-old jurist were against NRA, President Roosevelt's dismissal of the late William E. Humphrey as a member of the federal trade commission, the original farm mortgage moratorium act, federal incorporation of building and loan associations against a state's wishes, and

$7,000,000 IN FARM ASSISTANCE PLANNED

BATON ROUGE, La., July 9.—(AP)—Officials of the Farm Security and Soil Conservation administrations told the Louisiana Farm council at the council's monthly meeting that the agencies would spend approximately $7,000,000 in Louisiana during the current year.

E. C. McInnis, FSA director at New Orleans, said his organization was helping between 1,400 and 1,500 farm families in Louisiana buy their own farms. The average farm being so purchased, McInnis said, consists of between 30 to 60 acres and costs about $2,500.

Guy Fletcher, soil conservation coordinator, said recent passage by the Louisiana legislature of an act authorizing formation of soil conservation districts would allow farmers to take the initiative in practicing soil conservation.

The council invited Harry Brown, assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, to attend the council meeting August 11. Brown is scheduled to speak at the Louisiana State university farm short course then.

SABOTAGE FEEDS FLAMES OF RAGE FOR TWO RACES

Each Group Determined To Preserve Its Homeland In Palestine

8,500 BRITISH REGULARS AIDED BY POLICE, MARINES

Death-Like Quiet Prevails In Cities Bristling With Arms

JERUSALEM, July 9.—(AP)—The seething Holy Land presented a black picture of hate and mounting death tonight.

Gunfire and new incidents of sabotage fed the flames of rage and the despair of two races each determined to preserve its homeland in Palestine.

Sharp warning of the spreading enmity between Arab and Jew came from over Trans-Jordan's borders, the eastern part of Britain's Palestine mandate where an Arab administration rules.

The death toll from bombing, sniping, rioting and armed clashes since July 5 stood at 58—44 Arabs and 14 Jews.

The number of injured mounted to 189—143 Arabs and 46 Jews.

More than a score of the dead were Arab victims of the Haifa market place bombing Wednesday.

To stamp out disorders British protectors ordered into the bleeding land the fleet of swift armored cars of the 11th Hussars regiment from Egypt.

Already the hills and rocks sanctified to Christians echoed to the stamp of hobnailed boots of 8,500 British regulars, who reinforced 1,500 police and who were themselves reinforced by 1,700 marines and sailors. Besides, 1,500 troops were ordered from Egypt.

The town bristled with navy pickets. Steel-helmeted police with loaded rifles rode atop every bus in country districts. Aviators stood by at the airports.

There was death-like quiet in the cities. Jewish shops were shut for the Sabbath. Arab doors were closed in protest.

Hot-heads of both races jammed prisons and concentration camps.

Three Jews were detained for police questioning in yesterday's Jerusalem bombing when four Arabs were killed and 36 wounded.

Twenty Revisionist Jews, members of the party of 19-year-old Benjamin Joseph who was hanged June 29, were detained under emergency regulations and faced possible internment at Acre. Revisionists demand all of Palestine for Jews and oppose the British plan to divide the land in three parts.

Murray was struck allegedly by Joseph Davis, Oklahoma City architect, who was charged with assault and battery.

STOCK MARKET MOVES UPWARD

Average Price Of 60 Issues Up $8.90 From Three Weeks Ago

By Claude A. Jagger
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The stock market tilted upward in a quiet week-end session today—the quietest, in fact, since the mid-year bull market started June 20.

But the fact that the selling wave of Friday had subsided was encouraging to bullish enthusiasts, although they were inclined to caution in view of the sweeping advances already registered.

As Wall Streeters surveyed the week, they found that share price averages were a trifle under the levels of last Saturday, but that the market had experienced nothing in the way of a sharp setback, such as not infrequently marks the course of a bull movement.

Searchers for signs that the basic economic trend had definitely turned upward found comfort in the fact that the bond market attracted buyers pretty steadily during the week, and finished a trifle above last Saturday.

Also, the week saw further gains in several major raw material prices, such as raw hides, wool, lead, copper, steel scrap, livestock and cotton cloth, although a few items slid back a little, such as rubber and tin.

Trading in the stock market subsided to 592,300 shares today, a drop of about 60 per cent from last Saturday, and the smallest since trading came almost to a standstill three weeks ago with only 104,530 shares, lowest in 20 years.

The average price of 60 representative issues finished at $47.60, up 20 cents from yesterday, down 80 cents from a week ago, and up all of $8.90 from three weeks ago.

The week's business statistics were somewhat distorted by the Monday holiday, which was used by the steel and automobile industries for partial shutdowns reducing the week's output to the lowest of the year. Nevertheless, the steel trade authorities said buying had been interrupted tem-

GUARDS BEAT 'FEATHER MAN'

An attempt to jump on the automobile in which President Roosevelt was riding through Oklahoma City, Okla., resulted yesterday in a beating and arrest for Woody Hockaday, 52, of Wichita, Kas., who said he merely wanted to "shine the president's shoes." Hockaday has been detained in other cities, including Washington, for eccentricities in the past. A secret service man leaped from the president's car and swung his fist into Hockaday's jaw, knocking him to the ground. Two firemen, two national guardsmen and a policeman immediately jumped upon Hockaday, pummeled him and dragged him to a nearby fire station.

TRUSTEES NAMED FOR FOUNDATION

Group Chosen To Administer Funds Provided For Harris Scholarships

BATON ROUGE, La., July 9.—(AP)—Members of the board of trustees of the Thomas H. Harris Scholarship foundation have been appointed by Governor Richard Leche.

The foundation was created at the recent session of the state legislature as a tribute to State Superintendent of Education Harris with an appropriation of $48,000 for the next two years.

The governor appointed as members of the board of trustees J. F. Gauthier of Arabi, William Pitcher of Covington, Mrs. W. B. Eisely of Tallulah, L. E. Frazar of Lafayette and Nicholas Bauer of New Orleans.

The board is authorized by the legislative act creating it to meet and elect officers and name a secretary at an annual salary of $3,600 a year to be appropriated from the state school fund.

Superintendent Harris is empowered during his lifetime to award scholarships totaling $4,000 a year at each of the following institutions: Louisiana State Normal college, Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Southwestern Louisiana institute, Southeastern college, Louisiana State university and Southern university.

The act setting up the foundation says specifically that the board shall have nothing to do with awarding the scholarships but Harris shall have the prerogative "subject to the review of no one."

Governor Leche, in accordance with another act of the legislature, appointed Dean James Thomas Connor of Loyola university and Dean Paul Brosman of Tulane university as members of the governor's committee on interstate cooperation.

This committee will serve with five members of the house of representatives and five members of the senate as the Louisiana commission on interstate cooperation to facilitate Louisiana's cooperation with other units of government.

The governor's commission has as ex-officio members the chairman of the Louisiana tax commission, the

WOODY HOCKADAY'S OUTBREAKS FREQUENT

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Woody Hockaday, 52, who jumped on the president's car in Oklahoma City today to "shine the president's shoes," is well known in New York.

Clad in Indian feathers, he has been known to leap on banquet tables, give a war whoop and explain alternately his "peace plan" and "traffic marking system."

Hockaday went to Bellevue hospital's psychopathic ward for observation in 1936 after, garbed in Indian headdress and with cheeks painted red, he had strewn feathers over a large noonday crowd he had lectured on Wall Street. He was released after a short detention.

He usually carried a bag of feathers and was known in some newspaper offices which he customarily visited as "our fine feathered friend."

BATON ROUGE, La., July 9.—(AP)—Announcement of appointment of Dr. Dale E. Bennett as assistant professor of law at Louisiana State university was made today by Paul M. Herbert, dean of the law school.

Since 1936 Dr. Bennett has been assistant professor of law at the University of Texas. From 1933 to 1936 he was a law instructor at L. S. U.

Dr. Bennett will teach classes at L. S. U. in equity, corporation and real property.

NEGRO LYNCHED AFTER SLAYING

Kills City Marshal And Later Burned By Enraged Georgia Mob

ARABI, Ga., July 9.—(AP)—Sheriff J. H. Pitts said tonight a negro, who was in a "dying" condition after a pistol duel in which he shot and killed Marshal F. O. Epps, 60, was seized by an enraged mob, saturated with gasoline and burned on a country road near here.

The sheriff said the officer was called to a negro section of the town to arrest a negro named John Dukes, 60, on a charge of drunkenness.

"The negro whipped out a pistol and fired five times at the marshal," the sheriff said. "Before Epps fell, dying, he pulled his pistol and shot the negro twice.

"The negro ran about 200 yards and fell. When I arrived at the scene, he was in a dying condition."

Sheriff Pitts said after he left "a bunch of people got the negro, poured gasoline on him and finished him off."

The mob, the sheriff said, hauled the negro in a truck about a half-mile out of town and set fire to him.

"The negro's body was badly charred," he added.

The sheriff said Coroner W. E. Ixon of Cordele later held an inquest and a coroner's jury returned a verdict the negro "came to his death by unknown parties."

It was the first recorded lynching of 1938.

Sheriff Pitts said "the case is closed as far as I am concerned unless something turns up to cause an arrest."

Dr. M. C. McKinney, druggist here, said "there were 400 or 500 people"

ABERNATHY FAMILY VISITS IN MONROE

L. P. Abernathy, chairman of the Louisiana Highway commission, his wife and two daughters arrived in Monroe yesterday for a week-end visit.

Mr. Abernathy said that bids are now being advertised for the construction of a new concrete highway between Standard and Urania. The present road is black-topped. The new road will be designed to follow a route that will eliminate two dangerous railroad crossings.

Work has already begun, Mr. Abernathy said, on a new concrete highway between Rochelle and Selma.

HEARING ORDERED BY LABOR BOARD

Calls For Investigation Into C. I. O. Petition At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—(AP)—The national labor relations board ordered today an investigation and hearing of a C. I. O. petition that it be allowed to represent drivers of 19 New Orleans drayage firms in collective bargaining.

The board also authorized the New Orleans office of the N. L. R. B. to issue a complaint of unfair labor practice charged by the Committee for Industrial Organization against nine of the 19 companies. No date has been set for the investigation and hearing.

The C. I. O. made a new appeal to the N. L. R. B. today, in the strike called against the Yellow Cab company, as it squared off with Superintendent of Police George Reyer over its right to issue circulars attacking police and city officials.

The labor organization said it would defy Reyer's edict against circular distribution by sending out 10,000 additional copies of material which police said led them yesterday to arrest 86 men in a raid on the C. I. O.-affiliated National Maritime union headquarters.

Said a C. I. O. statement: "The ordinance under which Reyer acted is unconstitutional by a recent supreme court ruling against all such laws."

Reyer retaliated by announcing he would continue arresting persons distributing pamphlets and circulars whenever he found them. He said the supreme court decision applied only to "religious pamphlets."

He added that the Association of Commerce and others had asked him to enforce the ban because otherwise grocers would cover the city with advertising circulars.

The cab company announced it was operating about 200 cabs, some of them without a uniform policeman riding beside the driver as had been done during the week, and after to-

FRYE WILL ATTEND FREIGHT HEARING

BATON ROUGE, La., July 9.—(AP)—P. A. Frye, secretary of the Louisiana public service commission, said today he would leave tomorrow for Buffalo, N. Y., to represent the commission and Governor Richard Leche at the Interstate Commerce commission hearing on the southeastern governors' council freight rate case.

Governors of southeastern states are seeking removal of what they term a substantial disparity between southern freight rates and northern and eastern rates.

The south's arguments were presented at the I. C. C. hearing at Birmingham, Ala., several weeks ago. The Buffalo hearing, beginning Tuesday, will give the north and east an opportunity to present their objections to reducing southern freight rates.

The procedure after the Buffalo hearing will be submission of briefs and final oral arguments before the I. C. C. after which the body will consider the case in order to arrive at an ultimate decision.

LISTS ADMINISTRATION'S LAND, WATER PROGRAMS

Says National Policies Must Be Carried On By Those In Agreement

STATE FAIR GROUNDS, OKLAHOMA CITY, July 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt expressed friendship today for Senator Thomas, who is engaged in a hot primary fight for renomination.

Mr. Roosevelt, making the third major address of his cross-country tour, addressed a cheering crowd jammed in the state fair grounds.

The president termed Thomas "an old friend" and then told his audience: "It is essential, of course, that if the national policies of the national administration are to be carried forward there must be a general agreement on those policies by those who are responsible for the legislation which makes them possible."

Mr. Roosevelt also mentioned Governor E. W. Marland, one of Thomas' primary opponents, but referred to him only as "your governor."

Thomas and Marland rode with the chief executive to the fair grounds, and Thomas introduced him.

The president said that "Senator Thomas has been of enormous help in keeping me advised of the needs of your state and as to how we in Washington can help to meet them."

The president, following up his recent Washington radio chat, devoted much of his address to a plea for liberalism in government.

"America needs a government of constant progress along liberal lines," he said. "America requires that this

Monroe Officials To Seek Federal Funds For Municipal Improvements

Mayor Harvey Benoit and City Attorney S. L. Digby left Monroe last night for Washington, where they will confer tomorrow with Governor Richard W. Leche and federal officials regarding their efforts to obtain Public Works administration funds for improvements in Monroe.

Governor Leche also left last night for the capital and will arrive at the same time as the Monroe officials.

While in Washington the three Louisianians will confer with Secretary of Interior Ickes, who is the public works administrator, and Reconstruction Finance corporation officials.

Federal funds are desired by the Monroe officials for use in improving the city's sewerage and water system and for improvements at the power plant.

"We're like Governor Leche," said Mayor Benoit, "they're priming the pump up there and we want to fill our buckets too. We intend to take full advantage of our opportunity to get federal funds for some greatly needed improvements. Uncle Sam wants to spend money to create jobs and we're going to try to get Monroe's share."

ROOSEVELT PLAN DIVIDES SOUTH

Some Endorse Proposal And Others Want To Be Let Alone

By John Lear
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

The politically "solid south" of the Democratic party has split over President Roosevelt's proposals for its economic rehabilitation.

Of 23 southern United States senators and governors who responded to a survey of opinion, 11 gave full endorsement to the chief executive's statement this week that the south is the nation's "No. 1 economic problem" and to his action in calling a conference to "do something about it."

A number of the 11 offered definite suggestions on what the "something" should be.

None of the others expressed flat opposition to the president, but several gave more than gentle hints that they would rather the south be let take care of itself.

Four reported themselves "too busy" to read the presidential statement.

Six declined comment now, one way or the other.

The survey of opinion covered senators and governors of 11 states—Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky—but 10 of these 33 officials could not be reached.

Of those who expressed an opinion, none went so far as Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, who called the Roosevelt statement a political move designed to offset Republican efforts to woo southern conservatives from the president's Democratic banner. But there were two intimations pointed in that direction.

Senator Josiah W. Bailey, of North Carolina, one of the president's critics, said, "The south has advanced much in the last 75 years," but he gave the credit not to the New Deal but to "our forefathers who rebuilt the south after the Civil war."

Admitting "there is too much poverty in the south," Bailey took an apparent crack at New Deal spending by adding: "We will not get rid of it by giving people money."

Even more caustic was Senator John E. Miller of Arkansas who remarked:

"I will cooperate fully in any reasonable program to better economic conditions in the south but * * * my off-hand reaction is, to put it bluntly, that the south needs letting alone worse than anything."

In sharp contrast was the opinion of Arkansas' Governor Bailey, who described the president's call for the economic study as "the first positive step taken to readmit the south to the union, both politically and economically."

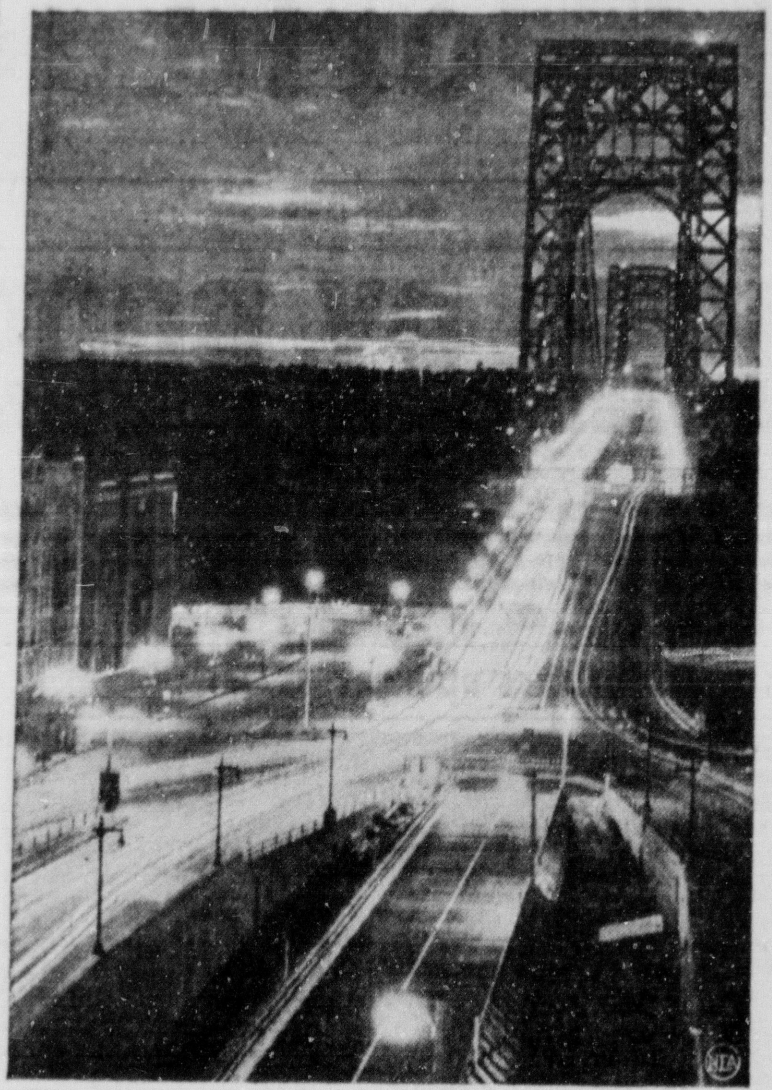
Governor Bailey said the attack the president outlined—toward soil conservation, cheaper fertilizer and power, control of absentee of ownership of industry, improved labor conditions, education, housing and taxation—should result in raising the south's income and consequently its buying power.

Another governor, Alabama's Bibb Graves, head of the southern governors' conference on equalization of freight rates, chimed in with enthusiastic support for elimination of "inequalities and other than made barriers" between the north and the south.

Mississippi's Governor Hugh White said he was "so busy with the legislature I haven't had time to read the president's message." Senators Harrison and Bilbo were out of the state.

For Louisiana, Governor Richard Leche endorsed the president's purpose, saying that higher wages would mean more industry for the south because "it is only in recent times, when wages and working conditions have been bettered, that industry has shown a disposition to come south."

WEEK-END TRAIL BLAZERS



When singers of spirituals chant about the "Glory Road" they may visualize something as beautiful as the photo above, showing a brilliant spectacle of illumination along New York's George Washington bridge and its approach. But it was scarcely a glory road for the thousands of Gothamites in the streaming caravan of cars whose headlights produced the effect. For they were reluctantly blazing the homeward trail across the Hudson river to return to work after a week-end at summer resorts.

QUICK ACCORD ON CHACO DESIRED

Mediators Confident Public Opinion Will Welcome Peace Agreement

BUENOS AIRES, July 9.—(AP)—Neutral mediators redoubled peace efforts tonight to prevent wrecking of a preliminary arbitration accord signed early this morning to end the century-old Chaco dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay.

The mediators sought a quick ratification of the pact by Bolivia and Paraguay to prevent complications which might prevent its becoming final.

They were confident public opinion in both countries would welcome the accord, which was initialed by the Bolivian and Paraguayan foreign ministers at 2:55 a.m. after a 3 1-2 hour session at the Argentine foreign ministry.

They were on guard, however, against any signs of maneuvering by the "outs" in both countries who, for political reasons, might fight the pact.

The first step toward making the arbitration agreement effective must be ratification by the Bolivian and Paraguayan governments. Then will come the signing of a definite treaty in Buenos Aires, and finally ratification of that treaty by the constituent assembly in Bolivia and by a plebiscite in Paraguay.

The Paraguayan situation preoccupied the neutrals more than the Bolivian.

Although the Paraguayan government and army apparently were supporting the machinery established in today's accord, the neutrals could not help recalling the Paraguayan regime was not constitutional but provisional, established by a revolution which succeeded another revolutionary government.

Furthermore, Geronimo Zubizarretta, a possible liberal candidate for the Paraguayan presidency, resigned his chairmanship of the Paraguayan Chaco arbitration delegation this week because the projected accord did not give Paraguay all her 1932-35 conquests in the war with Bolivia over the Chaco jungleland.

The neutral mediators represented six American countries—Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, Uruguay and the United States. Spruille Braden of New York was the United States delegate.

Neutral sources described the initialed arbitration draft as a "complete peace treaty" which, once ratified, would set up not only a permanent boundary by arbitration of the six neutral presidents but also would provide for non-aggression commitments, re-establishment of normal diplomatic relations between Asuncion and La Paz, the disputing capitals, and pledges of mutual commercial transit facilities through and beyond the Chaco, a region about the size of Arizona.

The same sources said the accord, once ratified, would bind Bolivia and Paraguay to accept as final the arbitral decision boundary line, extending northward from the Pilcomayo river in the western Chaco to the northwest Chaco, and eastward to Paraguay or to the Otuquis river before it empties into the Paraguay river. The width of the strip varies from 18 to 50 miles.

3 FEDERAL PRISONERS PLACED IN JAIL HERE

Three federal prisoners, a white man and two negroes, were lodged in the Ouachita parish jail yesterday by internal revenue agents. The white man was Henry Murphrie. The negroes were Frank Bagsdale and Frank Jones. All reside in the vicinity of Tallulah and are charged with violating United States liquor revenue laws.

At a hearing here yesterday before United States Commissioner Allen B. Guthrie, Bagsdale, who was arrested Friday north of Tallulah, was ordered placed in the parish jail when he was unable to make bond of $1,500, the amount fixed for his release by the commissioner. He is charged with selling untaxed whisky.

The other two men, Murphrie and Jones, who were taken in custody south of Tallulah on a charge of illegal manufacture of whisky, were lodged in the jail to await a hearing before Commissioner Guthrie.

SETTLEMENT OF OIL SPAT SEEN

Agreement Expected As Result Of Softening Of American Attitude

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Persons close to the state department predicted today that the controversy over Mexico's seizure of American-owned oil properties would be settled within a matter of weeks, due to a "softening" in the attitude of the American oil companies.

They based this forecast on recent developments here and in Mexico.

One of these was the speech made this week before the University of Virginia institute of public affairs by Major T. R. Armstrong, representative of the Standard Oil company in discussions with the state department.

Major Armstrong proposed two solutions, one that the matter be submitted to the international court at The Hague, the other that a committee composed of an American, a Britisher and a Mexican be appointed to manage the oil properties confiscated by the Mexican government.

Persons in close touch with the state department said these proposals did not represent a basis for a solution, in their opinion, but indicated that the oil companies were receding from the rigid position they had maintained—full payment in cash for the expropriated properties or return of those properties.

The state department is distinctly opposed to the idea of an arbitration by The Hague court. Knowing the length of time taken by most arbitrations, it takes the view that much trouble would be caused in Mexico before the issue could be settled by The Hague.

The oil companies are discussing the proposals of Mexican President Cardenas. These have never been made public, but it is believed widely that they are based on the proposition set forth by Cardenas at a press conference.

Cardenas suggested in this conference that he turn over to the foreign oil companies, American, British and Dutch, 60 per cent of the oil produced by the Mexican government-owned (expropriated) wells. The companies could sell the oil abroad, he said, and over a period of 10 to 15 years retire the principal of their investment. He did not clarify whether he would turn over the oil without charge or at cost of production; here it is believed that he had the latter in mind.

Retirement of principal on this basis would be at a very low rate if the valuation fixed informally by the oil companies themselves were accepted. This is around $425,000,000 to $440,000,000.

At the state department a much smaller valuation is favored. The department leans more toward an informal Mexican valuation of $45,000,000 than it does toward the oil companies' appraisal.

CLERICAL NEEDY WILL BE GIVEN ASSISTANCE

A non-federal project has been approved for Ouachita parish to provide employment for needy professional, educational, and clerical persons to assist in organizing and operating library services for the library of the Barkdull Faulk school in Monroe. Work will include cataloging and indexing; typing and filing index cards; conducting story telling hours for children; preparing pamphlets, picture, clipping and photograph collections; assisting in reference work; and preserving and repairing library materials. Mississippi Still Pioneers In Quest Of Tax Reduction

JACKSON, Miss., July 9.—(AP)—First to enact a retail sales tax, Mississippi may score another "first" in its pioneering quest to change a century-old tax system.

The state legislature, assembled in special session, was to begin its search this week for ways and means to lift all governmental taxes from homesteads. Governor Hugh White asked that exemptions apply to all homes, regardless of value. However, 96.4 per cent of the homes are assessed at $5,000 or less.

Enactment of the exemption proposal would reduce taxes on the 133,000 eligible homes (including 80 acres of land on a farm) approximately 65 per cent. The other 35 per cent would pay bonds.

Thirteen other states have exempted homes of a part of the property tax but Governor White's plan is unique in proposing to lift not only state, county, district and municipal taxes without regard to value but also because the state would reimburse local governments for the entire tax loss.

The sales tax, which Mississippi turned to in desperation in 1932 when its bonds were in default, explains how it is possible.

Largely because of the sales tax—a general two per cent levy on retail trade—the state has collected for the past several years more money than it needed for ordinary expenses of government. When the treasurer closed his books for the fiscal biennium ten days ago, the cash surplus lacked only a few thousand of reaching $6,000,000.

The legislature had appropriated most of the surplus for increased budgets of the next two years but Governor White and his experts said there would remain money to spare, enough to give the legislature a flying start toward raising the $3,380,000 it would cost annually to reimburse local governments their tax losses.

The governor's program is not without opposition. Mayors protested that it would give the state administration an axe to wave over the heads of county and city officials, destroying local self government. Others argued that it would shift taxes, not broaden the tax base.

Many legislators thought the governor's program would be approved in some form after extended public hearings to begin this week.

Florida's homestead exemption law is the nearest approach to Governor White's "dream plan." Florida exempts homes of all taxes except those levied to pay bonds issued prior to passage of the exemption law but there is a $5,000 limit on valuation.

Iowa exempts in the form of a tax credit all levies except for special improvements up to $2,500 valuation. Oklahoma's exemption follows the Florida pattern but the valuation limit is $1,000 while Wyoming strikes off the tax bill on the first $500 only.

Six states provide limited homestead exemptions from state property taxes: Alabama $2,000 limit, Arkansas $1,000, Minnesota $4,000 (not applicable to bonded debt outstanding July 23, 1937), South Dakota $5,000, Texas $5,000, Mississippi $2,500.

Georgia and Louisiana have limited exemptions applicable to state and some local taxes with a maximum valuation of $2,000 eligible, and this subject to reductions based on the state's financial condition.

West Virginia gives homesteads preferential treatment where the tax is not over one per cent of the assessed value.

North Carolina voters approved a constitutional amendment exempting homes up to $1,000 in value but it is subject to legislative sanction. Utah legislators are currently seeking petitions for an inactive veto of a 1937 exemption bill by circulating petitions for an iniative referendum but sufficient signatures have not yet been obtained.

SYPHILIS CLINIC HELD SATURDAY

Fifty Patients Appear For Treatment At Parish Health Unit

The first clinic for the treatment of indigent cases of syphilis was conducted by the Ouachita parish health unit Saturday morning, when fully 50 patients appeared to receive treatment.

Dr. Douglas Williams, director of the unit, and nurses were busy in securing the history of each case, no treatments being given Saturday. All were instructed to return Wednesday morning.

The operation of this clinic has been made possible by the appropriation of funds by the city of Monroe and Ouachita parish police jury. The necessary drugs will be furnished by the bureau of parish health administration which is a division of the Louisiana state board of health. Clinics will be held Saturday and Wednesday mornings at the offices of the health unit, city hall, from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

The clinic will be devoted exclusively to those who reside in Ouachita parish and will be in direct charge of Dr. J. W. Murphy, local urologist, who has had years of experience in treating venereal diseases.

HUGHES MAY TAKE OFF FOR FRANCE

Start Of Flight Between 2:30 And 3 A.M. Sunday Considered Likely

By Devon Francis
(Associated Press Aviation Editor)

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Howard Hughes began warming the motors of his specially built transport plane tonight, apparently determined in spite of delays due to motor trouble to hop within a few hours for Paris on the first leg of a round-the-world flight to beat the record of the late Wiley Post.

The start had been scheduled for late today but, as time wore on while mechanics worked feverishly to iron out all difficulties, the take-off was postponed from hour to hour.

As midnight approached, rain started falling on hundreds of persons gathered to watch the start of the flight.

Hughes seemed in better spirits than when he arrived at the field around 7:30 p. m. Then, a stiff south wind was blowing which would have necessitated using the north-south runway which is only 3,200 feet long. But later the wind lessened, giving prospect that Hughes would be able to use a longer runway to lift the plane which weighs, with its load, 25,000 pounds.

Whether Hughes and his crew of four actually would start tonight—beginning the flight to break Post's record of 7 days, 18 hours, 49 minutes—or wait until tomorrow was a matter of speculation, even with his personal representative Albert I. Lodwick, president of the Stinson Aircraft corporation, of Detroit.

Lodwick announced shortly before midnight, after a conference with the millionaire sportsman:

"If Hughes takes off tonight, and he seems determined to do so, it will be between 2:30 and 3 a. m. eastern standard time."

Hughes' $85,000, twin-motored airplane at noon looked in no condition to make the attempt. Engines were torn down and compasses had to be "swung" for accuracy before the fuel tanks were loaded with almost 1,800 gallons of gasoline.

Why Hughes was determined to leave tonight remained unexplained. Friends said he always had made his own decisions, and his hard-worked mechanics, who started the job of examining his engine cylinders last night, asked no questions.

PRESIDENT AIDS HIS SUPPORTERS

progress be sane and honest. America calls for government with a soul."

At one point, the president was sharply critical of those "who seek office, sincerely or otherwise, on impossible pledges and platforms—people with panaceas for reforming the world overnight—people who are not practical in an age which must be both practical and progressive.

"Theodore Roosevelt was perhaps a bit rough when he referred to such people as 'the lunatic fringe'. Strictly speaking, they are not lunatics but in many cases a little push would shove them over the line."

Mr. Roosevelt drew his most thunderous applause when he made an inferential reference to former Governor W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray as being nationally "known as a Republican."

Murray now is seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

ROOSEVELT PRAISES MRS. HATTIE CARAWAY

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S TRAIN EN ROUTE TO OKLAHOMA CITY, July 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, rolling through Arkansas and Oklahoma on his westward tour, had some cordial remarks today for Senator Hattie W. Caraway, a legislative friend of his New Deal program.

Mrs. Caraway is running for renomination in the Arkansas Democratic primary against Representative John L. McClellan. The president, addressing a station crowd at Booneville, Ark., remarked that the only woman senator "is a very old friend of mine and friend of yours."

The statement gave further evidence that Mr. Roosevelt will offer a helping hand to his supporters seeking re-election.

It followed the verbal bouquets of the chief executive handed out yesterday to Senators Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, and Bulkley, Democrat, Ohio.

Senator John E. Miller of Arkansas boarded the president's train with Mrs. Caraway at Little Rock. Both left it at Booneville.

Both at Booneville and in a later talk at Wister, Okla., Mr. Roosevelt outlined the administration's land and water conservation programs.

"This particular administration," he told the Wister crowd, "is trying to think about the future, and, in that thinking, to help people of the present day." He reiterated his previously expressed belief that money spent for conservation projects "is well spent and will come back many times over."

PARTING SHOT TAKEN AT GOVERNOR CHANDLER

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—A parting presidential shot at Governor A. B. Chandler, opponent of New Deal-favored Alben W. Barkley in Kentucky's Democratic senatorial primary, exploded in the capital today.

Politicians were still talking avidly about the president's unprecedented endorsement of Barkley in Kentucky yesterday when Senator Logan, Democrat, Kentucky, made public a letter from Mr. Roosevelt dated February 1.

It said the governor had made a "proposition" to the president the day before, and had "seemed surprised when I told him that you and I would be the last people in the world to traffic in judicial appointments in order to satisfy the ambitions of one office seeker."

Mr. Roosevelt's letter did not say so in many words what Chandler's "proposition" was. But, coupled with an announcement which Logan had just issued, it conveyed the idea clearly that the governor had suggested that the junior senator from Kentucky be appointed to a federal judgeship. This would have permitted Chandler to be appointed to succeed him in the senate, and would have left Barkley a clear field in his race for renomination to Kentucky's other senate seat.

"I want you to know how fine I think your statement of Monday was," the president wrote, referring to Logan's announcement that he would decline any judicial post offered him. "The governor put you and Alben and me into a most disagreeable situation and wholly without any necessity therefor.

"I want you to know that the governor came to see me yesterday, repeated the same proposition and seemed surprised when I told him that you and I would be the last people in the world to traffic in judicial appointments in order to satisfy the ambitions of one office seeker.

"You deserve all the credit in the world for the splendid and unanswerable and unselfish position you have taken."

Logan, in his statement of January 31, said he would refuse to take part in "anything that looks like a bargain with respect to the judiciary." One of the lieutenants in the president's unsuccessful fight to reorganize the supreme court last year, he said he intended to serve out his term and seek reelection in 1942.

Another political development in the capital today was a statement by WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins, accusing critics of "trumping up" charges that the work relief agency was engaged in political activity.

Hopkins denied, in a letter to Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, that the WPA had distributed groceries and other commodities to relief clients in Kentucky in large paper bags bearing the inscription, "Paper bags donated by a friend of Senator Alben W. Barkley." Vandenberg had sent Hopkins a photograph of a bag bearing the inscription.

Hopkins explained that the bags were supplied by an "unnamed friend" of Senator Barkley to a general store across the street from a WPA commodities distribution center in London, Ky.

PERMANENT REFUGEE COMMITTEE FAVORED

EVIAN-LES-BAINS, France, July 9.—(AP)—A movement to establish a permanent international refugee committee in London with United States support gained favor today as the refugee conference adjourned for the weekend with its thorniest problems yet to be solved.

Sir Neil Malcolm, League of Nations high commissioner for refugees, spoke in favor of the London plan at today's session.

He expressed a hope that besides taking care of the refugee problem itself the proposed committee would use its good offices to induce Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany to adopt a "more liberal" policy toward Jews.

in the crowd "that hauled the negro off."

"Epps had been marshal about two years," he said, "and was popular. Feeling was rather high following the shooting. Epps had known the negro a long time and went down there to arrest him, not expecting any trouble."

NEGRO LYNCHED AFTER DEPARTURE OF SHERIFF

CORDELE, Ga., July 9.—(AP)—Chief Deputy Sheriff J. G. Bullington said tonight a negro named John Dukes, 60, shot and killed Marshal F. O. Epps, 60, of nearby Arabi today and was later lynched by an enraged mob.

Bullington said Epps returned the negro's fire before falling mortally wounded and hit him twice. He said the negro was in a dying condition when he and Sheriff J. H. Pitts returned to Cordele after investigating the affair and the mob later "seized the negro and finished him off."

He said he understood gasoline was poured on the dying negro and that he was burned to death.

Sheriff Pitts and Coroner W. E. Mixon left for Arabi as soon as news of the lynching arrived, Bullington said, and proceeded at once to hold an inquest.

Epps sought to arrest the negro for drunkenness about 3 o'clock this afternoon, Bullington continued, when, according to witnesses, Duke opened fire and "put four or five bullets" into the officer. He quoted the witnesses as saying Epps shot three times while the negro was firing and then fell to the ground.

"He never spoke after that," Bullington said.

refund to taxpayers of money collected under the agricultural adjustment act and impounded in federal courts.

When Cardozo first came to Washington he was hailed generally as a "liberal," as one inclined to consider the ultimate aim of a law rather than its strict application upon the basis of logical hair-splitting.

Justice Cardozo was born in New York City May 24, 1870. His parents were Judge Albert Cardozo and Rebecca Washington Nathan Cardozo, both Jews of old Spanish and Portuguese lineage.

Their son had his education at Columbia university, studying liberal arts. He received his A. B. degree in 1889 and his master's degree the following year when he was only 20 years old.

NEW DEAL STRENGTH WON'T BE CHANGED

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—The death of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo gives President Roosevelt an opportunity to make his third appointment to the supreme court.

That appointment is not expected to change the New Deal's strength on the court, however, because Cardozo had favored most administration laws which came before the tribunal.

Appointments of supreme court justices must be confirmed by the senate, but the president may make a recess appointment before the senate returns to Washington next January.

In event he does so, and the appointee follows the usual custom, he will not sit with the court at its session beginning in October but will wait until the senate acts upon his nomination.

The two appointees which Mr. Roosevelt has made to the court previously were due to the retirement of Justices Van Devanter and Sutherland, regarded generally as members of the court's "conservative" bloc.

Senator Hugo Black of Alabama was appointed to succeed Van Devanter, and Stanley Reed, former solicitor general and a Kentuckian, was selected to succeed Sutherland.

Many names were mentioned in speculation tonight over a successor to Justice Cardoza.

The belief was widespread that a westerner would be nominated. The section beyond Minnesota now is unrepresented due to the retirement of Van Devanter of Wyoming and Sutherland of Utah.

Those mentioned prominently in this connection included Federal Circuit Judges William Denman of San Francisco and Sam G. Bratton of Albuquerque, N. M., and Justice Harold M. Stephens of Utah, a member of the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia.

The list of others mentioned for the court included:

Frank Murphy, governor of Michigan.

Donald R. Richberg, former administrator of the national industrial recovery act.

Senator Minton, Democrat, Indiana.

Robert H. Jackson, solicitor general.

Ferdinand Pecora, judge of the New York supreme court.

Samuel Rosenman, judge of the New York supreme court.

James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard law school and former chairman of the securities commission.

Felix Frankfurter, Harvard law school professor.

ROOSEVELT SAYS DEATH GREAT SHOCK

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today the death of Justice Cardozo "came to me as a great personal shock."

Here for a major address on his western tour, the president wrote with a pencil this statement:

"The news of the passing of Justice Cardozo came to me as a great personal shock. Years ago, when he was chief justice of the high court of New York, I learned to admire and to love him. He had a great soul. The whole nation has lost a constant friend."

He wrote his comment after he returned from speaking at the fairgrounds here. It was read to newsmen by one of his secretaries before the presidential train left for Fort Worth, Tex., at 6:40 p.m. (C. S. T.).

THIRTEEN JUSTICES NAMED BY WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Although the death of Associate Justice Cardozo will permit President Roosevelt to make his third appointment to the supreme court, he still will have a long way to go to break George Washington's record of 13.

The first president named the original six members of the tribunal and during his eight years in office filled seven vacancies.

FIRST DEATH IN OFFICE SINCE 1930

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Until today, no member of the supreme court had died while in office since March 8, 1930.

Edward T. Sanford of Tennessee died on that date a few hours after the extraction of a tooth. Former Chief Justice William Howard Taft died the same day, but he had resigned five weeks earlier on account of illness.

CARDOZO DESIRED TO RETURN TO WORK

RYE, N. Y., July 9.—(AP)—As long as he was able to hope, Associate Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo wanted to return to the supreme court and serve his country as well and actively as ever, his physician said tonight.

"His last words, I believe, were 'thank you,'" Dr. Curlin C. Craven, specialist on internal disorders, who treated the justice, said.

"He was the most courteous man I have ever known. It was second nature for him to be humble and thankful for everything done for him. He expressed his satisfaction with trifling little services.

"He continually said, 'I'm sorry to be such a nuisance, but I hope if I can get well I can be of some value to my country.' He didn't wish to live unless he could serve his country."

Dr. Craven said Cardozo had pneumonia when he first came to Port Chester in June.

"But he died of a coronary thrombosis," the doctor explained. "Until June 25 he had been improving steadily from his heart trouble. He had suffered from attacks for more than three years, but pneumonia had left him in poor shape.

"He had become happy and cheerful and seemed to be doing well.

Since June 25 he had been kept alive purely artificially in an oxygen tent and with intravenous injections of glucose. He sank day by day until his death.

"Nevertheless, Justice Cardozo showed during this time his remarkable mentality and his gracious character. He was a most unusual man with a most unusual brain.

"Immediately after stimulants he could be roused. He always smiled and indicated that he recognized the faces about him. His only request was for relief from that terrible pain in his heart.

"It is improbable that Justice Cardozo could have worked much longer, even had he recovered from this attack. But he did not realize this and continued to hope to return to work this fall.

"In delirium as in his conscious moments, Justice Cardozo's whole interest in his life seemed to be to try to recover for his work. In delirious moments he went over and over again old decisions and court cases. He rambled in legalistic terms, but there was no specific case mentioned that I recall. Outside the delirium his mind was surprisingly clear.

"He was never able to express the hopelessness of his plight. Under opiates, the severe pain of his condition was alleviated. I believed he died without hurt."

NEGRO SERIOUSLY SHOT OVER BEER

Failure To Pay For Drink May Cost Life Of June Ballard

Failure to pay for a bottle of beer may cost the life of June Ballard, local negro. He was shot and seriously wounded by Earl Sims, operator of an establishment on the Winnsboro road that retails beer.

Sims surrendered at police headquarters shortly after the shooting, which occurred about 6 p.m. yesterday, and, after being turned over to Ouachita parish authorities, was ordered released by Assistant District Attorney George Lester.

With a pistol bullet wound in the abdomen, Ballard was rushed to the negro ward of St. Francis sanitarium. There, following an operation for the removal of the bullet, the negro was said to be in a serious condition.

The shooting occurred near the intersection of the Winnsboro road and South Second street after Sims and his brother, Woodrow, had cornered Ballard and the negro allegedly attacked Woodrow Sims with a knife. Earl Sims ordered the negro to drop the weapon, he told the police, and when he refused to do so, Sims reported, he shot him once with a pistol.

The Sims brothers gave chase to the negro after he had drunk a bottle of beer at their place and fled on a bicycle, without paying for the beverage, the police were informed. When they caught up with him, Ballard is said to have grappled with Woodrow Sims and to have torn a sleeve out of his shirt.

Throughout the encounter that led up to the shooting the negro continually declared he had no intention of paying for the beer, Earl Sims told officers.

No charges were preferred against either of the Sims brothers pending further investigation of the case by the district attorney's office.

Japanese declared their new offensive in Shansi province, north of the Yellow river, brought "new victories to Japanese arms."

Earlier they admitted garrisons at Linfen, Kuwo, Wensi and Ynchen, along the Shansi railway and deep in the province which Japanese marched over last February and March, had been isolated for nearly four weeks. Rations and munitions were supplied by plane.

It is reported that geologists in Canada now use airplanes to discover the location of valuable deposits of silver, iron, cobalt and radium-bearing pitchblende.

TWO PANAY HEROES RECEIVE CITATIONS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—(AP)—Two heroes of the Panay bombing in the Yangtze river, Ernest R. Mahlmann and Homer W. Truax, were decorated with the navy cross and given citations today.

Truax, boatswain's mate aboard the United States gunboat, which was bombed and sunk by Japanese airplanes last December 12, was cited for "extraordinary heroism" in coolly throwing gasoline storage tanks overboard when the bombardment began.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Mahlman was cited for bravery in sticking to his guns in the face of the bombardment.

day would rehire none of its old employes.

So far, the company said, its machines have been operated by employes who returned to their jobs after joining the walkout eight days ago.

In its appeal to the labor board today the C. I. O. filed affidavits charging the cab company with "refusing to negotiate with the C. I. O. as the representative of its employes."

Meanwhile 13 of the 86 men arrested yesterday were released on bond while C. I. O. attorneys were seeking to set the others free.

Two men, shot in disturbances last night, were still hospitalized today. They were William Viliemuer, 31, shot in the arm, and Chester Bolding, 24, negro, shot in the leg.

The gunfire was the first since three workers were shot in the early stages of the strike called against 11 drayage firms three weeks ago.

That strike, still unsettled and with police riding trucks beside non-striking drivers, has been slightly eclipsed by the cab strike which involves a much greater number of men.

CLARKS MAN HURT

J. H. Dunlap of Clarks was receiving treatment last night at Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic for a fractured cheek bone. Attending physicians termed his condition serious but not critical. Mr. Dunlap suffered the injury when struck on the face by a tree limb at Clarks yesterday morning. He was brought to the clinic about noon.

TWO KILLED, 18 HURT IN STORM

Six Residents, Catholic Church And Parish House Reported Levelled

ABERDEEN, S. D., July 9.—(AP)—A tornado struck Andover late today, wrecked buildings and first reports indicated two persons were dead and 18 others injured.

Reported dead were Mrs. John Schuring and Mrs. A. P. Bryant, both residents of Andover. John W. Schuring was taken to an Aberdeen hospital. Also in the hospital was his daughter, Anna.

Schuring suffered scalp wounds while his daughter was severely bruised.

Mrs. Schuring was killed when the tornado struck the Schuring farm home on the edge of Andover. Mrs. Bryant's body was found in wreckage of a house in which she was visiting some distance from her home.

Six houses were levelled, together with a Catholic church and its parish house, by the tornado, which was concentrated in the west section of Andover. It also traveled west through the outskirts of Bristol, about 10 miles from Andover.

Communication with Andover was disrupted. Andover is 30 miles east of Aberdeen.

Money And Morals

Curious are the different estimates placed on the value of money, a commodity of unlimited possibilities for either good or ill.

To some, money means prestige and power; to others, freedom from financial cares, though many who have it realize it brings only worry and responsibility. To some it means gratification of longings and ambitions; to others it paves the way to moral and physical disaster.

The acquisition of great wealth may be a great blessing; too often it is quite the contrary. It all depends on the quality of the person who gets it.

Human history is replete with the experiences of men, working hard under the incentive of making a moderate competence for themselves and their dependents, living conservatively, discreetly, respectably, who, coming into sudden affluence, threw all restraint to the winds, became riotously profligate in spending the unaccustomed riches, and ultimately came to a miserable end as paupers. Money disrupted their mental and moral balance. It brought a curse instead of a blessing.

Money is a good thing to have, if the possessor is gifted with a sufficiency of wisdom in the use of it. Without wisdom it can be a vicious menace to human happiness. Money can buy almost anything that human desire can suggest. It can buy power and position, fine homes and expensive automobiles, extraordinary conveniences and physical comforts. It can even buy friendship—of a sort. One thing it cannot buy is character.

The fact that a man has wealth does not imply he is possessed of honesty, integrity and disinterested concern for the welfare of his fellows. Neither does it imply the contrary, although the man of wealth has much more difficulty in displaying those virtues than the one who has comparatively little of this world's material advantages. Yet there are men of great possessions who have been the world's greatest benefactors. They are shining exceptions.

The man of character, to whom wealth and its implications are no temptation, is possessed of greatness beyond the dreams of the man of millions who is devoid of the higher principles of human conduct. The word of the man of character is worth far more than that of the man of millions.

J. Pierpont Morgan, the elder, once was discussing the practice of lending money as observed by the powerful financial institution that bears his name. Said he: "Some men worth millions could not borrow a dollar from the House of Morgan without ample gilt-edged security to cover the loan, and there are men with no financial credit whatever who can come in here and get anything they want."

In that statement Morgan set his estimate on character, the most priceless possession a human being can have. A man may choose great wealth as the goal of his ambition, and when he has achieved it, it may dissolve before him like ashes in a summer wind. The man who aspires to the cultivation of character has chosen something more precious than rubies, or the gold of Ophir.

ON DOING THE DAY'S WORK

A point worthy of the attention of every young person was advanced by Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton university, in the course of his baccalaureate address to members of the Nassau graduating class.

"The way to be happy in your work," he remarked, "is to think more about your work and less about your career. Thinking about your career often steals away the joy of accomplishment which otherwise is rightfully yours. It will be your work and not your career that will give you the peace of mind that endures."

The young person entering the world of affairs, that is to say, should concentrate on the immediate, using his powers with the utmost effectiveness on the task at hand. That being done, personal advancement and ultimate attainment are bound to come.

Of course, there is something to be said for career planning. Every runner must have a goal. The man who knows where he is heading is the one who usually arrives.

But once a goal is chosen, there is no sense in idle daydreaming about the future. The thing to do is buckle down and concentrate on the day's problems. Even though the initial vision never fully materializes, the developing rewards of work well done will contain elements of cumulative satisfaction.

CANADA SHOWS HOW

Canada's budget is virtually in balance, according to figures presented by Charles Dunning, the Dominion's finance minister. Favorable economic developments are assigned as the reason for the relative fiscal restraint making possible to close adjustment of outgo to probable income.

And how is Canada faring in comparison with the United States? Has the balanced condition of Dominion finances militated against recovery?

Not at all. In point of fact, the progress made by Canadian business and industry has rather effectively proved that "pump-priming" is not essential to an upward trend, provided private enterprise is given the right kind of a chance to foster the processes of sound economics.

It is not to be expected, however, that Ottawa's technique will be accepted in Washington. And what's Canada, anyway, but the frigid hinterland of British conservatism?

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—There is such downright opposition among some of the "elder statesmen" to the administration's foreign policy that the attempt made to get the senate to endorse even its criticism of civilian bombing was all but snowed under.

Few in the senate doubted that Chairman Pittman of the senate foreign relations committee was working in close cooperation with the state department when he introduced a resolution proposing to "approve of the sentiments expressed by the secretary of state" in denouncing bombing of civilian populations.

To Secretary Hull it would have been valuable as lending senatorial weight to his recognized efforts to bring aggressor nations to heel. Two senate elder statesmen, Borah of Idaho and Johnson of California, opposed the first draft of the resolution on two grounds, first, that it endorsed a "foreign meddling" gesture of the state department, and second, that it called for a senate study of "what action may be taken by the congress tending toward the cessation of the practice of bombing civilian populations."

The first draft of 150 words was trimmed to 60 words after the two senators had a go at it in the foreign relations committee. All reference to the state department was knocked out and before debate finished even the proposed "study" of bombing problems was eliminated, leaving a mere 15-word condemnation of civilian bombing.

Johnson denounced the proposed study as an effort to have the senate draw conclusions about the war in the orient. With that, he said, "we would be on the way to the war."

Senator Clark of Missouri, who joined the two "elders" when the bill was debated, called it "smug hypocrisy" to condemn bombing at the same time the country continues to permit bombs, planes and war materials to be shipped to the "certain oriental nations" responsible for the bombings.

Critics argue that in the same hour the administration deals harshly with dictator nations with one hand it makes palliative gestures toward them with the other. The state department and its defenders refuse to accept any such interpretation of the policy and only recently a careful analysis by skilled observers indicated the department's policy is designed to "keep the aggressor nations guessing."

Secretary Hull has not concealed his view that the United States must take a positive position to make its weight felt in international affairs.

The Borah-Johnson camp, with emphatic power in the congress, argues that any policy which commits the country to one side or another of any international question is a policy leading to war. Isolation from foreign complexities is their view of the best way for the United States to encourage peace.

One critic says the country is already so committed to following British policy that the state department "bows each morning to London as devoutly as the Arabs bow to Mecca." Again, Secretary Hull has an answer for that. He asserts that coincidence of British and American policy is merely "parallel" action and not action together by agreement or compact.

One thing increasingly evident is that if the European and Japanese-Chinese issues continue acute the two views will have a big airing in the new congress.

DON'T PUT POOR IN UNIFORM

By BRUCE CATTON

More and more, as "preparedness" agitation begins to gain force, eyes turn to the Civilian Conservation corps. Those who believe in increased military preparedness are drawn, like flies toward sugar, to the hundreds of thousands of young men passing through the CCC.

Here, they reflect, is the raw material of armies, ready at hand.

Here are young, eager fellows, receiving outdoor physical training under the supervision of army officers, learning the rudiments of discipline in the necessities of living together. Why not utilize this material, ready at hand, as the nucleus of a military reserve? All it would take would be a little close-order and small-arms drill to convert this great body of youth into a valuable military reserve.

It sounds, superficially, attractive. But it ought to be resisted with the last ounce of strength.

• • •

The key to the reason why this plan won't do was unwittingly uttered by Major-General Hugh Drum in a message to CCC boys in the Chicago area. General Drum said:

"Enrollees come from all walks of American life . . ."

No, general, Enrollees come from only one walk of American life. That is the all-to-great stratum which has been unable to find a place in the "regular" economy of the country. The CCC enrollees are the children of need, and the sons of necessity.

That, general, is not the basis on which to build an army reserve. Quite apart from the question of whether increased military training is necessary is the question of how it ought to be provided if it is necessary. Thousands of boys have found no better school than the streets, no better occupation than idle wasting. For the government to give them an opportunity to go to the woods, live in a healthy manner, learn a trade and earn some money meanwhile—that is all to the good. But to go on from there and say, "Now we will also train you as soldiers, to be first if military need arises"—that would be a gross betrayal.

It would be a grave denial of democracy, and a mockery, in that even the European systems of universal service are more democratic, for they make all men subject to military training, not merely those for whom the economic machine has not been able to find a use.

If we are to have a mass military training, or universal service, let us have it as such, so we will know where we are going, and not slide it in under cover of a civilian works program made necessary by other failures. If young men must train for war, let it be all young men, not a group made helpless by forces beyond them.

The name, general, is CIVILIAN Conservation corps.

A BOOK REVIEW

EUROPE SCRAMBLES FOR SUCKERS

Europe's dilemma is insoluble. European civilization is built on the theory that a nation can prosper only by exploiting less civilized people on other continents; there aren't enough of such peoples to go around, and the supply is constantly dwindling, and hence the great powers are doomed to an unending dog-fight for pre-eminence—a dog-fight in which "right" and "justice" are on nobody's side and in which, ultimately, everybody is going to lose.

So, in substance, says Randolph Leigh in "Conscript Europe," an intense, opinionated, and highly provocative discussion of the state of world politics today.

Sensibly enough, Mr. Leigh suggests that America should make up her mind to stay out of the next European war at all costs. We shall be invited presently to step in and save democracy, civilization, or something, he says; if we are wise we shall do nothing of the kind.

His book is curiously uneven. It opens with an acute analysis of England's vaunted "democracy"—which, says Mr. Leigh, is no real democracy at all and never has been. There follows a briefer discussion of the state of things in France, a pretty superficial survey of Germany and Italy, and the rather surprising statement that it isn't much use to study Russia because Russia isn't going to cut much figure in future European history.

You will doubtless find much in this book to disagree with; much, I imagine, that will make you mad. But it will set you thinking, and it may give you a useful new slant on some of the world issues of the day.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

OLD MAN CHARON, ferrying back and forth across the River Styx, must have peddled them the news by now. The news that the Greatest Show on Earth had to fold up, quit cold, almost at the beginning of its season, and for the first time in nearly 60 years.

You can fairly see them and hear them, too, as Old Man Charon, leaning on his pole and tugging now and then at his long, gray beard, gives them the latest news of how labor union troubles forced the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus to strike the big top and all the lesser tents at Scranton, Pa., and take its dismal way back to winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla.

Barnum is there—Phineas T.—pompous and bustling and shrewd, and with him his partner, James A. Bailey, and in that group on the bank of the Styx, at Old Man Charon's landing place, are the seven Ringling brothers who founded their end of the Greatest Show on Earth out in Baraboo, Wis., years ago and combined it with Barnum & Bailey.

BARNUM IS STRIDING about fussing and fuming, and little Bailey is silent and stern, as he was in life, but there is a stricken look on the faces of the seven Ringlings, August and Otto, Albert and Alfred T., Charles, Henry and John. A stricken look, the expression of their utter, shocked amazement that the amusement enterprise they had built up to such colossal proportions and had made tremendously profitable, out of which a family fortune approaching a hundred million dollars had been made, that this gold mine could have failed their children and grandchildren, and the American people for that matter.

And in the eyes of one in that group—he wears a gray fedora, and a big, plaid-patterned ulster and swings a cane—in his eyes tears shine frankly. For he is Dexter W. Fellows. He was with the big show for 40 years. It was in his brain and blood and bones. It was as much a part of him as his own warm heart. He had a terrific pride in it.

THERE WERE FEW human institutions, indeed, in his mind, which could be compared with it. And I used to suspect that more than once he compared the great five-ring, three-platform arena, with its gay and glorious confusion of aerial and trapeze artists, its bareback riders, its whooping, galumphing clowns, its glow and its unique and peculiar aroma, to Paradise itself, and not at all in disparagement of the big show.

He had a right to feel that way, for just as certainly as the wind blows in March and the dogwood blooms in May Dexter Fellows had as much to do with making the circus America's big show as any of the men who founded it, Barnum, Bailey and the Ringlings of Baraboo.

I CAN SEE the old boy now as he sat, feet propped up against his roll-top desk in the press-room of Madison Square Garden, a big cigar hiked up in a corner of his humorous mouth; see him sitting there solemnly recounting the latest fable in his repertoire, yarns that were grabbed up eagerly by the reporters and spread all over the country, read by half a hundred million people, likely.

He was a great personality that man, Fellows, for so many years "advance man," as they called it, for Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey; the press agent who kept ahead of the show for a week or so, ballyhooing its marvels in all the newspaper shops along the itinerary and handing out complimentary tickets as lavishly as a Carnegie gives away libraries.

CITY EDITORS, noted snarlers and yappers, as all men know, actually laid down whatever it was they were doing and swung around in the old revolving chair to chew the fat with Dr. Fellows. Even managing editors, beings so usually remote and aloof that they sometimes seem legendary, would come running from their lairs to greet him and feast their souls upon his wit and wisdom. The business of any newspaper simply stalled when Dexter Fellows dropped in to say just when the Greatest Show on Earth would come to town, and what the big features were this season, and dish up any dirt that he had picked up out on the road.

Year after year he brought the circus to New York and preceded it out upon the road when it took the rails with its 100 gaudily painted cars, its 800 splendid horses, its 1,600 human beings, its 50 elephants and its magnificent menagerie of every strange beast of the jungle and the desert.

YES, IT'S A GOOD THING that Dr. Fellows wasn't on hand over there in Scranton where the roustabouts took charge and the boss called it all off rather than give in. It would have been a case of apoplexy sure if Dexter had had to stand there and endure such goings-on. It would have seemed to him, I think, like the collapse of his life's work—the whole huge, heroic, fantastical, uproarious legend of the circus toppling crazily to the earth.

Well, perhaps the big show will take the road again next spring. Its young boss, John Ringling North, nephew of the seven Ringling brothers who have passed over to the other side, says it will, and he should know. But will it ever be the same again? I wonder.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

Recent years have seen the development of two procedures in the control of infantile paralysis which have had a great deal of attention in the newspapers and in the magazines, but whose exact value is still not yet positively determined.

Recently when it was demonstrated that the disease is transmitted to the monkey by the passing of the infected material into the nose it was suggested that the nose might be blocked by the use of various sprays or inoculations of various sorts. The one on which the investigators finally settled was a 1 per cent zinc sulphate solution. This seemed to be able to protect the monkey against an experimental injection of the infected material.

However, since the method was tried on a fairly large scale last summer, it has been found that in some instances, because of the conditions within the nose in many people, the solution damages the nerves of smell to such an extent that there is a loss of the sense of smell for a long period of time, if not permanently. Obviously this is not a desirable effect.

This effect seems to occur much more often in grown-ups than in children. In children the sense of smell seems to return within a few weeks in the vast majority of cases.

Although these injections are usually not painful, in some instances when the nose is of such character that the solution is held for a long time in contact with the tissues of the nervous system, there may be some pain. The investigators are now working out methods which may overcome this undesirable complication.

Finally, it must be remembered that the method is not permanent but will protect only for a period of perhaps a month or six weeks, after which the method may have to be repeated. No doubt during the summer the appearance of epidemics of infantile paralysis may make possible more extensive and better controlled tests and thus prove either the value of this method of prevention or its failure.

As has already been mentioned, among the most difficult of the cases are those in which there is paralysis of the ability to breathe. The famous case of the Snite boy is an example in which the use of the new device, known as the iron lung, has been of great value.

This device is one in which the entire body of the patient is inserted. By the creation of a negative pressure, automatically controlled breathing is made possible. Unfortunately, in some of the most severe cases the apparatus, while it keeps the patient alive for a while, is unable to do much more than to prolong the existence without very much promise of complete recovery.

In the acute cases the device will help sometimes to maintain life until recovery begins.

The parents of children who have this disease, and the child himself, should be given every possible encouragement. Today there are innumerable records of men and women who have been crippled by infantile paralysis and who have made sufficient recovery to take care of themselves thereafter.

Throughout the country means are being developed for rehabilitation and re-education of those crippled by infantile paralysis. The national foundation which has been established is making available the combined knowledge of experts in various phases of the attack on this disease. Modern medicine has shown that most of the serious diseases that attack human beings can be conquered. With more and more research and with greater facilities for the care of the crippled, the future is not discouraging.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—With everybody hoping and praying that the country is about to move upward from the depression's bottom, economists and statisticians have gathered in enough facts and figures to permit them to present a fairly plausible and well-connected analysis of factors making for the present inertia.

There is no assurance that such a diagnosis will be helpful in warding off economic depressions of the future. But you never can tell.

Lauchlin Currie, assistant director of research and statistics for the Federal Reserve system, whose business figures are widely used in industry and government, recently summed up his conclusions in a confidential survey.

He stresses the factors causing the inventory and forward buying boom of 1936-37, the decline in residential building after April, 1937, and the abrupt decline in net federal expenditures in 1937. And he achieves some distinction by admitting that his is a "hind-sight" view, based largely on figures available only this year, and not something he was predicting all the time.

Currie groups essential depression factors roughly as follows:

The Money Rolled In

National income: From 1933 to 1936 forces tending to increase the national income were ascendant. Government kept adding to buying power more than it took in taxes. Business increased expenditures on inventories, plant and equipment. In 1936 a residential building boom got under way. National income increased from less than 40 billion dollars in 1933 to 64 billions in 1936. The increase of nine billions in 1936 was one of 16 per cent, highest rate ever known in a period of stable prices.

Prices: England's rearmament inspired speculation in certain raw materials and inspired inflationary sentiment. In a quick transition period, labor won substantial wage and hour concessions. A sellers' market resulted from anticipation of rising prices and fear of interruptions by strikes. Industries passed on higher costs in higher prices and some encouraged excessive forward buying by announcing price increases effective on future dates. From October, 1936, to March, 1937, wholesale prices rose 7 1-2 per cent, at an annual rate of 18 per cent, in what Currie calls "one of the worst periods of forward buying and inventory accumulation we have ever experienced."

Inventories: Dun and Bradstreet's survey covering 17,000 firms indicates that manufacturing and merchandising inventories increased by about two billion dollars in 1936 and three billions in 1937. Federal Reserve estimates what Currie calls an "astounding increase" of five billions in the 12 months ended September, 1937.

Another Shrinkage

Government expenditures: Here came the biggest, quickest drop of all among factors tending to increase national income. Net excess of activity-creating federal expenditures over and above tax collections was four billion dollars in 1936. This excess dropped from about $335,000,000 a month through 1936 to less than $60,000,000 monthly from March to December, 1937. Bonus payment swelled the total in 1936 and collection of a billion social security taxes shrank the 1937 figure.

Other factors: The speculative movement had to subside sooner or later; this one ended in April of last year. Pressure of inventories began to be felt and industries began to sell from accumulated stock instead of new production. Increased reserve requirements and Mr. Roosevelt's warning against certain high prices dampened inflationary sentiment—"may have," says Currie. Effect of the armament boom seemed to have been overemphasized.

The labor situation became more stabilized after the United States Steel and General Motors agreements with C. I. O., discounting another speculative factor. Statistics began to show that installment credit had been extended dangerously. Residential building began to fall off after April, 1937, apparently because of cost and price advances. Industry was sufficiently confident to go on increasing new plant and equipment expenditures through the third quarter of the year, total such expenditure being seven billion dollars in 1937 as compared with five billions in 1936. But adverse factors eventually flattened out that factor, too, and everybody knows the rest.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. While vacationing at a resort hotel, should you speak to the persons who regularly eat at your table?
2. Is being good-natured basic in having good manners while traveling?
3. Is it within the proprieties to entertain a visitor of the opposite sex in a hotel room?
4. Does a married woman sign the hotel register as "Mrs. John Hartford" or "Harriet Lane Hartford"?
5. Is it wise to write or wire ahead of time for hotel reservations?

What would you do if—

You are a man registering at a hotel for your wife and 12-year-old daughter. Would you write—

(a) Frank Black and family?
(b) Frank Black, wife and child?
(c) Mr. and Mrs. Frank Black, Miss Mary Black?

Answers

1. Of course.
2. Yes.
3. No.
4. The former.
5. Yes, and ask for a reply.

CITY OF 20,000 DEAD UNEARTHED

Ornamented Funeral Causeway Uncovered From Dust Of 50 Centuries

CAIRO, Egypt, July 9.—(AP)—A city of 20,000 dead and a richly ornamented funeral causeway have been unearthed from the dust of 50 centuries at Sakkara.

The discoverer, Selim Bey Hassan, said today at least 20,000 mummies lay in the necropolis beneath the causeway which connected a valley temple with the funeral chapel of Unas, last king of the fifth dynasty.

The necropolis antedates the causeway—or walled passage—by about 300 years but Selim said he found evidence it was used long after the causeway was built.

Discovery of the latter was termed a find of highest importance because inscriptions on the walls answered the puzzling question of where ancient Egyptians cut and dressed granite used for statues and temples.

These inscriptions told the story of a technical school beside the quarries of Asswan where all the dressing was done and where men learned how to cut the stone, which was shipped northward by way of the Nile.

The causeway is a passage 700 yards long and seven feet wide. The side walls, nine feet high, were covered with the largest known collection of old kingdom inscriptions and scenes.

Ceiled with blue-painted stone to represent the sky, the passage was covered with large limestone blocks, with a central slit running its whole length to admit light and air.

Walls and floor were of white tura limestone.

Scenes depicted included the transport by boat of red granite columns and capitals from Asswan to the pyramid of Unas, wrestling between Egyptians and Bedouins and transport by boat of Asiatic prisoners.

King Unas, who reigned over Egypt 5,000 years ago, was shown in company with a multitude of gods, preceded by bearers of offerings.

Other scenes showed work in the fields in the four seasons, including gathering of honey and figs, harvesting, bird catching and breeding of animals.

Marketing scenes depicted trading by barter, men beating out gold leaf and the casting of metal, polishing of gold and stone utensils and weighing of goods in fine scales.

Discovery of the route from the chapel led to the finding of the valley temple itself.

REBELS HAMMER TOWARD VALENCIA

Hundreds Of Tanks And Bombing Planes Hurled Into Conflict

HENDAYE, France (At The Spanish Frontier), July 9.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgents hammered from sea, land and air today against the government defenders of Valencia in a coastal battle south of Nules.

Hundreds of tanks and bombing planes were hurled into the conflict while insurgent warships poured shells into the militiamen's lines at right angles to the fire of Franco's artillery on the shore.

Government dispatches said General Jose Miaja conferred hurriedly with provincial officials in Valencia to speed construction of the fortifications of the former provisional capital.

The insurgents were slightly more than 25 miles away after capturing Nules yesterday and pushing down three miles, along the road to Sagunto and Valencia, where government troops dug in after their retreat.

Twelve miles northwest of Nules, other insurgent columns from Onda and Tales attacked government lines southwest of Sueras. Fighting was heaviest on the slopes of the Sierra de Espadan, one of the two ranges of mountains forming natural barriers to the insurgent drive.

Sanguinary hand-to-hand fighting among fruit and palm trees preceded the capture of Nules where the government rear guard made a last stand in house-to-house fighting.

Insurgents reported charges of dynamite were set off in the center of the once prosperous health resort by the last defenders to flee. They said the narrow, winding streets were masses of ruins.

The insurgent advances were achieved at a heavy cost of lives as the week's operations were characterized by mass infantry assaults on government positions.

It was estimated the insurgents lost 10,000 men while losses of the government defenders, following strictly defensive tactics, were placed at about 2,000.

ICKES REVIVES POWER DIVISION

Lending-Spending Act Provides Funds For Resuming Activities

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes re-established the power division of PWA today.

It had ceased to function last September after the public works administration quit receiving applications for grants of federal money under the old public works act. The lending-spending act passed by congress this summer provided funds to resume activities.

The most important duty of the revived division, it was learned, will be to determine whether proposed municipal power projects would compete with existing private systems and, if so, whether the municipalities have made a reasonable effort to purchase the private utilities.

Ickes announced yesterday that, in general, PWA would grant funds for competitive municipal power projects only when he was satisfied that the cities involved had been unable to buy the private properties on reasonable terms.

Action on applications for PWA financing of approximately $56,000,000 of public power projects had been delayed pending Ickes' statement of policy.

PWA has not announced when it will begin making allotments to funds for some of these projects, but it is expected now that the first of the grants will be made next week.

Dr. Clark Foreman, young economist who is a native of Georgia, will be at the head of the power division, as he was before. Alexander Speer, a native of St. Louis who until recently was president of the Virginia Public Service company, has been appointed chief engineer. This post formerly was held by J. D. Ross, who lately became administrator of the Bonneville power project in the far west.

If the power division functions as it did formerly, it will provide the administrator engineering advice on the technical soundness of projects and on the probable revenue yield in event a loan is to be made. It is expected also to provide legal counsel on questions of the rights of municipalities to sell bonds, the right to construct projects, and similar matters.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION WILL TAKE ROAD BIDS

BATON ROUGE, La., July 9.—(AP)—The Louisiana Highway commission announced it would receive bids August 10 for the construction of 5.589 miles of concrete between Lewis and Caddo lake in Caddo parish.

On the same day the commission is to receive new bids for construction of 8.178 miles of grading and surfacing between Lydia and Weeks Island.

CHANGE URGED IN NEUTRALITY LAW

Senator Pittman Thinks President Should Have More Latitude

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, expressed belief today that a year of war in China had demonstrated that the Roosevelt administration must be granted wider latitude in its economic and commercial dealings with China and Japan.

The chairman of the senate foreign relations committee told the Associated Press this probably would involve revision of the neutrality act, with additional discretion being given to the president as to when and what portion of its terms would be invoked.

The present neutrality act bans arms shipments to both sides in any foreign conflict recognized by the president as a state of war. It was drafted primarily with a possible European war situation in mind and no thought was given to Asiatic developments, Pittman said. President Roosevelt has refrained from invoking the statute against China and Japan, which never have declared war formally.

"I believe the administration will present to congress suggestions for a wider discretion," said Pittman, who often in the past has been a congressional spokesman for the state department. "I also am of the opinion that, speaking generally, congress is considering the necessity for such action."

The increasing amount of Japanese purchases of war supplies from the United States may encourage efforts to revise our economic and commercial relations with the Orient, Pittman indicated.

"I think this year of war in China has aroused, on the part of the American public, a serious prejudice against the Japanese government and a growing desire to aid China," he declared.

Sales of war materials to China in the last year exceeded those to Japan by slightly less than $5,000,000, but Japan's share of the purchases increased substantially during the last six months. A total of approximately $20,000,000 of such supplies was purchased from this country by the belligerents. None could have been purchased had the neutrality act been invoked in the Sino-Japanese conflict as it was in the Spanish civil war.

Pittman predicted that, as long as the law remained unchanged, Japanese purchases would continue to increase while those of China would decrease. He attributed this to the fact that the Japanese blockade of Chinese ports was making it increasingly difficult for China to import American products.

SOX AND LIONS RAINED OUT IN SERIES FINAL

Sports Chatter

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

Big Ed Walsh pleads for the return of the dead baseball and inside play.

The famous White Sox pitcher of 30 years ago points out that it is practically all outfield play now . . . little infield play.

The Big Moose yearns for more base running, hitting and running, double plays, and diving catches.

In Walsh's day, a team had to do something besides bat a base runner around.

Players had to stand out defensively as well as offensively.

Walsh, now associated with a filtering plant outside of Meriden, Conn., dropped into Cleveland for a remarkable old-timers' game which saw Tris Speaker field his 1920 world champions intact.

Most of them played nine innings, including a young catcher named Stephen Francis O'Neill. And after watching Smoky Joe Wood, Charley Jamieson, Bill Wamby, Doc Johnston, Joe Sewell and Elmer Smith cavort, and Walter Mails pitch, it might not be a bad idea for Alva Bradley to bring back some of the old Indians.

Smith, for example, banged a home run a mile over the same right field wall which he cleared with the bases full in the World Series against Brooklyn 18 years ago.

THREATENS KIDNAP

After Duster Mails pitched two innings, O'Neill asked him how long he believed he could go and be that fast.

"For nine innings," replied the big left-hander now campaigning for the office of sheriff in Marin county, Calif., while serving as public relations counsel for the San Francisco Seals.

"I've a notion to kidnap you . . . take you to Buffalo," said O'Neill. "You could win in the International league . . . no foolin'."

It was a fine old-timers' game, with the 71-year-old Cy Young taking his turn for the Cleveland Naps of 1908.

O'Neill asserts that Charley Keller of Newark would improve the New York Yankee outfield on either side of Joe DiMaggio.

"The departure of Bob Seeds helped some," said Stephen Francis, shaking his noggin', "but the presence of Keller leaves us plenty of trouble in Newark."

He says that the veteran Seeds has just caught up with the pitching, and will help the Giants.

Outside of a young Buffalo left-handed pitcher named Fred Archer, who was purchased from the Philadelphia Athletics along with Fink, O'Neill says Keller is the only young International league athlete ready for major league delivery. He expects the Bisons to collect $25,000 for Archer.

SLICKEST SHORTSTOP

Mails says that in Bill Lillard, 19, and in his second year of professional ball, San Francisco has the slickest Pacific Coast league shortstop since Roger Peckinpaugh and Dave Bancroft. Bill is a Los Angeles lad and a brother of Gene Lillard, who became a pitcher for the Angels after being shipped home by the Chicago Cubs as a third baseman.

The Duster adds that Dominic DiMaggio is a better outfielder than Joe, but that he is a year or two away in hitting. He lists Brooks Holder, a 21-year-old San Francisco outfielder who guards the plate like Max Bishop, and Schoolboy Hutchinson, a 19-year-old 195-pound Seattle pitcher, as bright prospects.

He says that the veteran pitcher, Win Ballou, now with the Seals, would aid any major league outfit as a relief worker.

"Ballou's curve breaks like a ball dropping from a table," explains Walter Mails, the people's choice of Marin county.

BAER MAY FIGHT

With Joe Louis through fighting for the year, look for a shindy between Max Baer and Gunnar Barlund this fall or winter. . . . Baer will have to do something besides usher Robert Taylor around to keep himself alive pugilistically. . . . Against Barlund, the erstwhile Butterfly Butcher Boy would have the added incentive of clearing the family name. . . . It was the Finn, you recall, who forced Buddy (the younger) Baer to tender his resignation, last March. . . . Cookie Lavagetto, recently the National league leader, slumped so badly that he was dropped to the eighth slot behind, of all people, Leo Durocher, in the Brooklyn batting order. . . . Babe Ruth asserts that he'll have all the Dodgers whacking .300 by the end of the month, but the coach doesn't say what month. . . . The Bambino receives an average of 50 fan letters a day. . . . A club postmaster has been appointed for him. . . . Burgoo King, which Colonel Edward Riley Bradley says possibly was the least fashionable of his four Kentucky Derby winners, gives evidence of being quite a sire. . . . Doubt Not and Burgoo Miss, of his first crop of 2-year-olds turned in impressive victories at the Lincoln Fields meeting.

NATION'S CRACK PROS MEET FOR P. G. A. LAURELS

Defending Champion Denny Shute Tops Fine Field For Week-Long Tourney

By Bill Boni

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., July 9.—(AP)—The nation's crack pros, from defending Champion Denny Shute to sideline spectator Walter Hagen, were gathering here today for the $15,000 P. G. A. championship, whose week-long run opens tomorrow with the first of two 18-hole qualifying rounds.

Starting at 9 a.m. (E. S. T.), 40 threesomes will tee off at six-minute intervals, with Shute, Felix Serafin of Clark's Summit, Pa., and Levi Lynch of Dallas getting away at 10:30 a.m. and two-time United States Open Champion Ralph Guldahl, paired with Jimmy Demaret of Houston and James Noonan of Chicago, following 12 minutes later.

Shute, winner over Jimmy Thomson, Shawnee's blond blaster, in the 1936 final at Pinehurst and over Harold (Jug) McSpaden a year ago at Pittsburgh, will crash into select company if he is crowned champion for the third straight year at the end of next Saturday's 36-hole final.

Only two players, both honorary members of anybody's all-time golf team, have been able to improve on Shute's record. They are Hagen, who decided three days ago that his game wasn't good enough to seek a sixth championship to add to his victories in 1921, 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927, and Gene Sarazen, Connecticut gentleman farmer, who won in 1922, 1923 and 1933.

In addition to Shute and Sarazen, the field of 120 starters includes four other ex-champions—veteran Leo Diegel, who beat Al Espinosa in 1928 and Johnny Farrell in 1929; Tommy Armour who, at 42, is coming back for another crack at the title he took in 1930 with a 1-up victory over Sarazen; Johnny Revolta, winner in 1935, and little Paul Runyan, who had to go 38 holes to beat Craig Wood in the 1934 title round.

One of the most impressive performers in practice this week was Horton Smith. In his first trip around the course the Chicago stylist cracked out a 65, one under the course record set by Ed Dudley in the 1936 Shawnee Open and seven under par. His round included three birdies on the first nine and two birdies and an eagle coming home.

While Shute, automatically eligible for match play, is competing in the qualifying round only in quest of the Alex Smith Memorial trophy, which is awarded the medalist, his rivals will be battling for the 63 other match play berths. The hand-to-hand fighting will start on Tuesday, when two 18-hole rounds are scheduled. The rest of the competition will be at 36 holes.

Harry Cooper, second among the country's money-winners, Ky Laffoon and Tony Manero, beaten by McSpaden and Shute, respectively, in last year's semi-finals; Henry Picard, Byron Nelson, 1937 medalist; Dick Metz, United States Open runner-up; Thomson, home club pro; Frank Moore, brother of St. Louis Cardinal Outfielder Terry Moore, and Sam Snead, still top money-winner, although he was such a "bust" in the Open at Denver, also are entered.

Shreveport Pilot Reveals He Was Socked By Catcher

JONNARD CLAIMS STEPHENSON HIT HIM AFTER GAME

Rceeiver's Fist And Not Fly Ball Puts Sports Manager In Hospital

SHREVEPORT, La., July 9.—(AP)—Claude Jonnard, manager of the Shreveport baseball team, said today that he was the victim of what he described as an unprovoked attack by Catcher Walter Stephenson, of the Sports, early Wednesday morning at San Antonio.

Jonnard is in a serious condition in a sanitarium here from an infection that developed from the blow and which has involved the entire right side of his face. Today the swelling had spread to his left eye and his condition continued genuinely critical.

Jonnard said that the incident occurred in front of a San Antonio hotel and that he was struck once. On the return journey from San Antonio, the story that he was struck by a fly ball while catching flies in the San Antonio outfield was fabricated for the sake of appearances and to discourage the impression that dissension was rampant on the club. Another circumstance, Jonnard said, was the possible selection of Stephenson on the all-star Texas league team.

"While we were in the hotel lobby that night after the game," Jonnard said, "I instructed all of the men to be at the train not later than 1 a.m. Our train was to leave shortly after 3 o'clock. While we were on the sidewalk, Stephenson mumbled something which I did not hear, and I stepped over to where he was standing and asked him what he had said. Without replying, he hit me under the right eye, and before the incident could spread beyond that point other members of the team stepped between us. I had the wound treated by the hotel physician and joined the rest of the players on the train as soon as I could be treated. During the game, I made a suggestion to Stephenson that he accepted with reluctance, and he remarked to me afterward that I had 'been on him' for the last three games."

Jonnard said he learned later that Stephenson had a ring on a finger of the hand with which he struck.

Stephenson today made a public apology for the incident and took full blame for what occurred. He said it was the result of a misunderstanding.

"It was all a complete misunderstanding," he said, "and I am sincerely sorry. I wish to make a public apology and will take the full blame. I wish it had not happened."

J. Walter Morris, general manager of the team, had not announced any disciplinary action today.

"We can not do anything until we get both sides of the matter," he said. He added that this was not possible because of Jonnard's condition.

Asked if Stephenson would be continued in the lineup pending action, if any, Morris said: "Certainly."

Jonnard could be questioned only briefly for his version of the occurrence. The blow he received opened a cut in the shape of a crescent directly beneath his right eye, and the infection developed from the wound. Jonnard lost the sight of his right eye in an accident in his childhood and the use of an artificial one was made necessary.

The New Iberia Cardinals shut out Abbeville Saturday in the Evangeline league, 3 to 0, behind the two-hit flinging of Roy Munger.

The Cardinals managed to tap out only five blows themselves from the offerings of Midkiff and Norman, scoring in the first and sixth innings. Neither team made an error.

The Lake Charles Skippers lost a chance to gain on first place Abbeville, dropping a 7 to 6 decision to Rayne. The Rice Birds got ten safeties to eleven for the Skippers and committed four errors, but managed to win by steady run-making. A three-run rally by Lake Charles in the ninth fell short.

Wet grounds at Opelousas postponed the Jeanerette game there, and rain caused postponement of the Lafayette joust at Alexandria.

ALL-STARS PICKED BY SOUTHEASTERN

Squad Announced For Team To Play League-Leading Pensacola Club

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 9.—(AP)—The Southeastern league named 16 of its best today on an all-star team to play Pensacola's league leaders in the circuit's first all-star game July 16 in Pensacola.

Marty Purtell, pilot of the Mobile Shippers, was selected by sports writers, radio announcers and team managers to manage the honor squad.

The team follows:

Player, Team, Position	Bat. Avg.
Dolitch, Selma, 1b	.314
Blair, Jackson, 2b	.295
Blanchard, Selma, ss	.211
Connolly, Montgomery, 3b	.321
Oana, Jackson, rf	.323
Luce, Selma, cf	.338
Whitehouse, Meridian, lf	.337
Epps, Jackson, c	.283
Griswold, Selma, c	.290
Beddingfield, Jackson, p	.224
Hoisve, Meridian, p	.261
Sierra, Gadsden, p	....
Burrows, Selma, p	.283
Rebel, Anniston, utility	.314
Ramsey, Selma, utility	.308

Balloting was close for several positions. Dolitch nosed out Montgomery's Gene Colletti by one vote for the first base job. The four pitchers, Hoisve, Beddingfield, Sierra and Burrows, were outstanding choices, although votes were scattered among 11 other moundsmen.

Clarence Blair and Aubrey Epps swept the board, each receiving the highest possible total of 19 votes. Connolly received 16 ballots for the third basing job.

The team batting average of the all-stars is .293. The Pensacola team boasts a stick mark of .296.

League President Stuart X. Stephenson said he will name next week the umpires.

Mobile, although contributing the manager, was the only team that failed to nominate an active player.

GUERNSEY WINNER OF TENNIS CROWN

HAVERFORD, Pa., July 9.—(AP)—Diminutive Frank Guernsey, Jr., Rice institute sophomore, wore the national intercollegiate singles tennis crown tonight by virtue of an easy 6-4, 6-1, 6-0 victory over Morey Lewis, of Kenyon college, Gambier, O.

The Orlando, Fla., youth tore through the finals of the 53rd annual national tournament on the clay courts of the Merion Cricket club, winning points almost at will.

The University of Southern California team of Joe Hunt, national junior singles champion, and Lewis Wetherell, defeated Lewis and Don McNeill, also of Kenyon, in straight sets for the doubles championship, 6-2, 6-2 and 6-4.

As singles champion, Guernsey succeeds Ernest Sutter, of Tulane university, whom graduation kept from the 1938 play.

Lewis, a native of Texarkana, Ark., drove up to the finals by defeating three seeded players, but was virtually helpless against Guernsey.

Lewis at the start broke through twice to take a three-love lead, but Guernsey reclaimed his deft touch and won four games in a row to lead 4-3. Lewis squared it at 4-all, but Guernsey won the next two and the set.

In the third set Guernsey had match point. He lobbed and Lewis ran to the net to congratulate his opponent. But the lob proved to be an out. Then Lewis fired two spectacular forehand placements down the line to deuce the game. Lewis then netted twice to give Guernsey the match.

LANDIS TO RULE ON DEAN'S SUIT

Dizzy May File Action Against Cardinals If Commissioner Says Okay

CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, apparently held the answer tonight to whether "Dizzy" Dean of the Chicago Cubs would sue the St. Louis Cardinals charging damages to his pitching arm—and Landis withheld comment.

Dean said today he planned to take legal steps and would ask $250,000 from his former employer, alleging the Cardinals forced him to pitch too soon after an injury last year.

He said he had talked to Landis regarding the advisability of such action, would confer with him again and would be guided by the commissioner's decision. Landis would make no statement.

Purchased from the Cards for $185,000 and three players, Dean has won three games against no defeats this year, but has not pitched since May 4. His injury was diagnosed as "sub deltoid bursitis" and a rest was ordered.

A week ago the soreness had almost disappeared but today another examination disclosed it had returned to the muscles back of the shoulder blade and a further rest was prescribed. An X-ray picture also was taken. On Monday it will be examined again in the presence of William Wrigley, Jr., president of the Cubs.

Charlie Drake, assistant to Wrigley, answering a query whether Dean might be retired unless his arm begins to heal, said:

"There was never a thought of retiring Dean. What we are trying to do is get him into condition to pitch this year."

"I am not getting any place this way. I might as well sue," Dean asserted.

Drake said Dean told him "he was going to take the $250,000 and pay back Mr. Wrigley the $185,000 he paid for him."

MARICA WINS SUSSEX 'CAP AT WILMINGTON

WILMINGTON, Del., July 9.—(AP)—Marica, Thomas D. Taggart's black daughter of Epinard, proved herself the best race mare of the Delaware park meeting if not the best of the season today when she won the $10,000 added Sussex Handicap, feature of the closing day program.

Although Bobby Dotter held her under close restraint most of the way, Marica smashed the track record, beat out Thomas Healey's Tatterdemalion by a neck and administered a sound beating to Esposa, her leading rival among the mares. Packing top weight of 125 pounds, Marica ran the mile and a quarter in 2:03 3-5, three-fifths of a second faster than Calumet Dick's old track mark. She was an even money favorite, returning $4 on each $2 win ticket.

William Woodward's Isolator finished third, three lengths behind the leaders.

LOUISIANA GOLFERS PLAY MISSISSIPPIANS

It will be Louisiana against Mississippi at the National Park golf course in Vicksburg, Miss., next Sunday, when golfers of Monroe and Tallulah clash with golfers of Vicksburg and Jackson, Miss.

Monroe golfers interested in participating in the match are requested to get in touch with Winnie Cole, professional at Lakeside Country club. He explained that they need not be a member of the country club to take part in the event.

There will be a barbecue after the match, he said. Cole said the National Park course was one of the best in the south.

HORNSBY BLAMES 'FRONT OFFICE'

Rajah Claims Business Managers Greatest Drawback To Baseball

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, in a magazine article published in the latest issue of Colliers, couples disclosures of episodes in his stormy major league career with the assertion that "one of the greatest drawbacks in operating a successful baseball club is a business manager who has not had adequate training in the playing end of the game."

Conceding his article "probably will get me in wrong," Hornsby specifies: "I refer to such men as Bill DeWitt of the St. Louis Browns, Larry MacPhail of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Warren Giles of the Cincinnati Reds. They are fine men personally but as business managers they have not had training in the playing end of the game."

Citing several instances, Hornsby charges interference by DeWitt in the running of the Browns led to disputes and his (Hornsby's) discharge as manager of the club in 1937.

"But when I talked to Don Barnes, president of the club, and Bill DeWitt they said nothing about my baseball record. It was the old gambling stuff again. Had I been betting on the races? Yes, I said. 'Then you're fired,' said Barnes. 'And you won't get any money on the rest of the contract.' I said I'd see about that and I did, the contract being settled later, but the whole thing burned me up.

"I've said so much about betting because it's been a good gag to use against me. For a time this year there were rumors that I was on baseball's black books and it looked that way. Certain jobs I had lined up in the big leagues suddenly faded away. John Ogden answered all the rumors by signing me to coach his Baltimore Orioles."

Hornsby adds: "Don't get me wrong. . . . There are business managers who also happen to be old baseball men, such as Ed Barrow of the New York Yanks and Eddie Collins of the Boston Red Sox and Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals. . . . The ideal arrangement is the one the New York Giants have. Bill Terry is not only team manager but business manager and head of the chain system. He knows baseball upside down and he runs the Giants as the team should be run. Horace Stoneham owns the club and keeps hands off. He'll end by having the best property in baseball."

NO AUTO DRIVING FOR STAR SWIMMER

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—(AP)—If you want to become a great swimmer don't drive an automobile, advises Duke Pao Kahanamoku of Hawaii, one of the greatest swimmers the world has ever seen.

Kahanamoku, who is sheriff, sealer of weights and measures and coroner of the city of Honolulu, was Olympic games sprint champion in 1912 and 1920. He and eight other Hawaiian stars are here for an exhibition tomorrow with some northern California swimmers.

Now 48 years old, Kahanamoku is a living example of the claim that swimming keeps you trim. His hair is grayed, but Kahanamoku still has the powerful slim physique of his youth.

Driving an automobile is bad for swimmers, Kahanamoku warned, because pushing the clutch and brake pedals bunches the swimming muscles of the legs.

"I'd advise any young swimmer to walk when he isn't swimming," he said.

His loss in 1924 to Johnny Weissmuller in the 50-meter Olympic games sprint in Paris Kahanamoku blames on "knotty" legs.

"I started driving pretty steadily after the 1920 games," he recalled, "and when I came to the mainland I realized that my legs might not stand up. I wasn't afraid of Weissmuller. I was afraid of my legs.

"Well, they didn't have the old kick, although Weissmuller was coming so fast then he might have beaten me anyway."

MONROE LEADING 1 TO 0 AT END OF THIRD INNING

Locals Move On To Clarksdale For Double Header This Afternoon

EL DORADO, Ark., July 9.—(Special)—Monroe and El Dorado were rained out Saturday night in the final of their two-game series.

The downpour came at the end of the third inning, and it washed out a one-run lead which the White Sox enjoyed at the time. The game was started under threatening conditions, but the field was dry when the umps ordered the contest to begin. However, in the second a drizzle of rain started to fall and then at the end of the third, the real deluge descended, putting an end to all prospects of completing the game. The necessary 30 minutes was waited out before the game was officially called off.

The White Sox had scored a run in the second frame. Tom Perry, a southpaw, was the Monroe starting hurler, and Johnny West was on the mound for El Dorado.

The rain gave El Dorado a 1-0 lead over Monroe in the series here, the Lions having won a disputed game over the White Sox Friday night. Manager Doug Taitt protested the Lion victory and the outcome depends upon President J. Walter Morris. Manager Taitt protested the game, he said, when Umpire Thomason gave him but 30 seconds to get back to the outfield after protesting a decision by the umpire. Manager Taitt, who is no speed demon, couldn't reach his right field post in 30 seconds and he was tossed out of the ball game.

Although the Lions won the only game played here, they still were on the short end of a series with Monroe. The White Sox won three straight games from El Dorado at Monroe before the two teams moved here.

Monroe will go to Clarksdale Sunday morning to play the Red Sox in a double header Sunday afternoon. Manager Taitt announced that John Yelovic and Al Bronkhurst probably would pitch for the Sox.

Spokes of Greenwood hurled a three-hitter Saturday night in the Cotton States league, setting down the pace-setters, Greenville, 3 to 2.

His mates got to Schopp for 10 safeties, but failed to bunch them, and when the Buckshots nicked Spikes for two runs in the ninth, the Dodgers' lead looked shaky. The Greenwood pitcher and his defense tightened in the clutch.

In the only other game played, Pine Bluff whipped the Hot Springs Bathers, 6 to 2. The Judges bounced two pitchers for 11 hits, while Smalling fed the Bathers seven.

A double header between Helena and Clarksdale was rained out 15 minutes before the scheduled start at Clarksdale. Monroe's game at El Dorado was called at the end of the third inning because of rain.

Scores by innings:

Greenwood	001 010 010—3	10	2

UNITED GAS SOFTBALL TEAM BEATS CROSSETT

The United Gas team of the Twilight softball league took a double header from an all-star club of Crossett players in Crossett, Ark., Friday night. The Gassers won the first game, 10 to 1, and the second, 10 to 5.

They will meet the Pelican Weld and Tool Supply company team, an outstanding Shreveport club, at the Plum and Third street diamond here at 4 p.m. today.

Fruge pitched airtight ball for the Gassers in the first game of the double header, allowing but one hit and one run. A teammate, Richardson, further enlivened the game by slamming out a homer.

The Gassers got eight hits in the first game, while Crossett was being limited to one. In the second, they made two less; Crossett, three more.

Garland hurled the second game. Bickham caught both.

Belker turned in the best performance for Crossett. He made the lone hit for his team in the first game.

TULANE AND VANDERBILT ELEVENS PLAY IN 1941

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—(AP)—Tulane university's Green Wave football team and the Vanderbilt university Commodores will resume athletic relations in 1941, Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, Tulane athletic director, announced today.

Two games were contracted for, the 1941 engagement at Nashville on November 1 and the return game in New Orleans on October 31, 1942.

The teams met last at Tulane in 1932 and played to a 6-6 tie before a capacity crowd. Their first meeting was in 1902 when Vanderbilt won 23 to 5, the first of the seven games they played.

BEES ROUT HUBBELL TO WALLOP GIANTS, 7-0

SUCCESSIVE HOME RUNS OFF GOTHAM ACE EQUAL MARK

Hubbell Gives Up Three Straight Circuit Clouts In Third Inning

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Boston's "stingless" Bees fired a record-equalling slugging punch today to back up Lou Fette's four-hit pitching and trample the Giants 7 to 0.

Tony Cuccinello, Max West and Elbie Fletcher hit successive homers off King Carl Hubbell in the third inning to equal a major league mark that hasn't been tied since 1934. It was only the eighth time in all baseball history and the third time in the National league that three homers were hit in succession in one inning.

Having given up two runs in the second inning, followed by the four in the big third, Hubbell retired at the start of the fourth, being charged with his sixth defeat of the season.

GRIMES CHASED AGAIN

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—(AP)—Burleigh Grimes, Brooklyn Dodgers manager who got into trouble with the umpires so often last year that he was reprimanded by President Ford Frick of the National league, was chased from a game today for the third time this season.

Grimes was ordered off the Dodgers' bench in the second inning of the game with the Phillies for baiting Umpire Dolly Stark, who was calling balls and strikes. A disputable decision on Arnovich in the first inning provoked the argument.

PHILS SHADE DODGERS

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—(AP)—The Phillies won the second longest game of the season from the Dodgers 4 to 3 today when Emmet Mueller's triple and Morrie Arnovich's single in the 16th inning produced the winning run.

Hero of the tilt was Claude Passeau, who went the entire distance for the Phils. He yielded 12 hits, fanned eight, and pitched shutout ball for the last 11 innings. Luke Hamlin relieved Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons in the fifth and finished for the Dodgers.

PIRATES WIN AGAIN

ST. LOUIS, July 9.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates cut the New York Giants' first-place lead in the National league to 2 1-2 games today by winning their ninth straight victory.

With Mace Brown adding further laurels to his relief pitching record, the Pirates squeezed past the St. Louis Cardinals, 8 to 7. The Giants lost to Boston, 7 to 0.

Johnny Rizzo hit two home runs to spark the Pittsburgh attack. Consecutive homers by Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize in the Cardinal half of the third drove Jim Tobin to the showers and brought Brown into the game.

INTENTIONAL DROPPING OF FLY TABOO IN NATIONAL

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—(AP)—A new National league rule to stop an outfielder from intentionally dropping a fly ball in order to make a double play was disclosed today by President William E. Benswanger of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

He said he received a letter from Ford Frick, president of the National league, which read:

"The following change has been made in the instructions to umpires: 'Hereafter, with two men on base, and one or more out, umpires will call a catch when an outfielder obviously and apparently intentionally drops a fly ball in order to make a double play.'"

The league-leading Hodge team will tangle with the third-place Brown club at 4 p.m. today at Brown park. The Hodge nine has maintained a clean slate of five victories and no defeats since the beginning of the second half of the split season of the Ouachita Valley league.

Manager Herb Steed of the Brown club announced yesterday that he would start Andy Jones, who has not lost a game since he joined the team, against Hodge. Lefty Butler will probably do mound duty for the visitors.

Bruce Hedrick will do the catching for Brown, with Jimmy Gimber the probable Hodge receiver.

The new Martin 166 bomber accommodates a crew or four or five men, and has a top speed of approximately 230 miles an hour at 8,000 feet.

Rikard Holds Lead In Cotton States Batting

Greenville Outfielder Batting .378; Taitt And Murray High In Averages

Cully Rikard, Greenville center fielder, continued to pace Cotton States league batters with a mark of .378, according to averages released yesterday. The averages included games of last Wednesday.

Barnett, Hot Springs third sacker, was batting .455 and Manager Doug Taitt of Monroe maintained an average of .379, but neither had participated in enough games to be recognized as leaders. Barnett had played in only 16 games, while Taitt had participated in but 28.

"Pudge" Powers, El Dorado catcher, continued his climb last week and was but seven points behind the Greenville star, with a mark of .371.

Greenville continued to pace the league in both batting and fielding to demonstrate their superiority. The Bucks had a team average of .290 in batting and .955 in fielding. The Monroe club improved its batting mark, closing out the week with an average of .268, in fifth place. The White Sox had a fielding average of .951, four points behind the leading Greenville club.

Taitt, with .379, paced the local squad in hitting, with Glenn Murray, who had played in 19 games, second among the White Sox with .349. Pete Medak was the only other .300 hitter on the Monroe team, with a mark of .312.

"Chick" Galeria, veteran Greenville southpaw, held his lead among the league's pitchers with 14 victories and only two defeats. Hawkins and Lamb, both of Greenville, each had nine triumphs and three losses to gain runner-up honors to Galeria.

The averages:

CHICKS BUY RIKARD

GREENVILLE, Miss., July 9.—(AP)—Cully Rikard, center fielder of the Greenville Buckshots in the Cotton States league, was sold tonight to the Memphis Chicks of the Southern association.

Rikard, whose home is in Olive Branch, Miss., is batting .378 with the league leading Bucks and is leading for loop hitting honors.

President Tom Watkins announced the purchase, for an unrevealed price, after watching Rikard in action tonight and last night. The Bucks' center fielder was bought by Greenville from Monroe last season. He was formerly owned by Memphis.

SCHMELING GETS COOL RECEPTION IN BERLIN

BERLIN, July 9.—(AP)—Max Schmeling's return home in defeat caused hardly a ripple of excitement today as the Bremerhaven boat-train reached Berlin for a cheerless reception.

Two dozen persons including friends, cameramen and newspapermen were on hand but there were no cheers and no official welcome for the German heavyweight who lost to Joe Louis.

"I'll go to the hospital tomorrow to complete my cure," said Schmeling of the injuries he sustained in the title fight. "Beyond that I have nothing to say at present."

To friends who expected him to come home on a stretcher the ex-champion said "that would never have done. Naturally I insisted on walking off the boat and the train."

As he descended the steps from the elevator platform Schmeling seized at a banister with a somewhat uncertain hand and clung to it as he descended.

Then he drove with Anna Ondra, his movie actress wife who met him at Bremerhaven.

BROOKLYN HURLER SOLD TO MILWAUKEE BREWERS

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers tonight announced the sale of Pitcher Charles "Buck" Marrow to Milwaukee of the American association.

John McDonald, secretary of the Brooklyn club, said it was a straight cash transaction. The amount involved was not revealed.

Marrow came to Brooklyn last year from Louisville of the American association.

STAGEHAND WINS $10,000 HANDICAP

Howard Star Equals Track Record In Beating Fighting Fox For Purse

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Maxwell Howard's Stagehand, hero of last winter's Santa Anita Handicap and Derby, regained his brilliant form today and raced to victory in the $10,000 Empire City Handicap in track record equalling time.

The Earl Sande-trained son of Sickle, forced out of the Kentucky Derby by the coughing sickness, drove between horses in a blanket finish and emerged winner by a half-length. His time of 1:51 for the mile and an eighth, made with 124 pounds in the saddle, matched the track record established by Dalmation in 1910 and equalled by three other horses since then.

Five horses charged down to the finish line half-lengths apart. William Woodward's Fighting Fox, freshened up since his disappointing Kentucky Derby and Preakness efforts, was second. Then, in order, came Townsend B. Martin's Galapas, Mrs. Parker Corning's Thanksgiving and B. F. Whitaker's Mythical King. Behind the bunched leaders were the Wheatley stable's Stormscud, coupled with Fighting Fox in the betting, the Howe stable's Consul and John Hay Whitney's Gentle Savage.

Stagehand, 8 to 5 choice, won the purse of $9,450 and boosted his earnings for the year to $151,400. It was his sixth victory in ten starts and placed him back in the thick of battle for the three-year-old championship.

The Howard colt was last until the field rounded out of the back-stretch, about three-eighths of a mile from the finish. Jack Westrope had "plenty of horse" under him, however.

Meanwhile, Galapas, well beaten in the Kent Handicap, won by Stormscud, was setting a fast pace. He outran Fighting Fox into the last furlong where the Fox took a narrow lead. Then Stagehand, driving through a hole in the last sixteenth, asserted his class and won going away.

FOXX GAINS IN AMERICAN RACE

Red Sox Slugger Only 12 Points Behind Averill In Batting Chase

CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx, ace run maker of the Boston Red Sox who climbed to third place in the American league batting race a month ago—and then faltered—again is in position to challenge the leader, Cleveland's Earl Averill.

On June 10, Foxx was 12 points behind the pace setting Averill. Averages Friday found Foxx in third place again, the notable difference being his average of .349 was 22 points behind the Indian slugger and 10 points behind his own mark a month ago.

A general slump during the week reduced Averill's average 13 points to a .371 figure and caught all the leaders except Cecil Travis of Washington, but helped Foxx, whose mark fell off but one point.

Foxx jumped from fifth place to within four points of Travis, who replaced Hal Trosky of Cleveland as runner up. Travis had a mark of .353, two points better than his third place average last week.

Trosky fell 16 points. George Case of Washington and Sam Chapman of Philadelphia dropped out of the select group, making room for DiMaggio, Pytlak, Rolfe and Cramer.

Foxx not only gained in the batting race but retained his grip on departmental leads. He had scored 62 runs, batted in 89 and was tied with Hank Greenberg of Detroit at 23 for the most homers. Travis' 104 hits remained high along with Averill's eight triples. Joe Cronin took over the doubles lead with 24, while Bill Werber of Philadelphia tied Buddy Lewis of Washington for the most stolen bases. Each had 11.

Pitcher Johnny Allen of Cleveland, undefeated since his opening day start, continued to top all hurlers with 12 victories and one setback. Bob Grove of Boston had won 12 and lost 3, while Red Ruffing of New York had 11 and 3. Buck Newsom of St. Louis held the strikeout lead at 89.

Washington displaced Cleveland as the team batting leader with .288. St. Louis retained first in fielding with .974 and passed Detroit with a total of 80 double plays.

FORT WORTH FIRES PEEL AS MANAGER

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 9.—(AP)—Manager Homer Peel of the Fort Worth baseball club, the 1937 Dixie champions, was relieved of his duties last night and traded to Toledo of the American association for two players.

President Stanley Thompson telegraphed Peel at Oklahoma City last night:

"It is my unpleasant duty to advise you, Homer, by acting under instructions from the board of directors, you are relieved of the responsibilities as playing manager, effective immediately. The board deeply appreciates your wonderful service rendered and holds you in highest regards as a manager and a gentleman. Change is substantially necessitated from a financial standpoint."

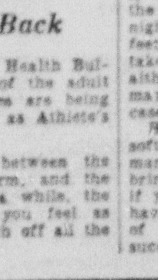
Business Manager Cecil Coombs, whose disagreements with Peel were known throughout the 1937 season, said Peel had been traded to Toledo for Pitcher Fred (Firpo) Marberry and Catcher Morris Hancken.

Peel declined to go to Toledo and arrived here by train today. He said he had not quit the team, but was "relieved of the job." He planned a conference today with Thompson.

Temporarily, at least, Coombs will have charge of the Cats both on and off the field.

PEL FIELDER HURT

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—(AP)—Larry Gilbert, manager of the New Orleans Pelicans, Southern association, said Cleo Carlyle, center fielder, broke the middle finger of his left hand today and would be out of the lineup for several days.



FOOT ITCH
ATHLETE'S FOOT
Relief Guaranteed
Or Your Money Back

According to the Government Health Bulletin No. E-28, at least 50% of the adult population of the United States are being attacked by the disease known as Athlete's Foot.

Usually the disease starts between the toes. Little watery blisters form, and the skin cracks and peels. After a while, the itching becomes intense, and you feel as though you would like to scratch off all the skin.

Beware of It Spreading

Often the disease travels all over the bottom of the feet. The soles of your feet become red and swollen. The skin also cracks and peels, and the itching becomes worse and worse.

Get rid of this disease as quickly as possible, because it is very contagious, and it may go to your hands or even to the under arm or crotch of the legs.

Most people who have Athlete's Foot have tried all kinds of remedies to cure it without success. Ordinary germicides, antiseptics, salves or ointments seldom do any good.

Here's How to Treat It

The germ that causes the disease is known as Tinea Trichophyton. It buries itself deep in the tissues of the skin and is very hard to kill. A test made shows it takes 15 minutes of boiling to kill the germ; so you can see why the ordinary remedies are unsuccessful.

H. F. was developed solely for the purpose of treating Athlete's Foot. It is a liquid that penetrates and dries quickly. You just paint the affected parts. It peels off the tissue of the skin where the germ breeds.

Itching Stops Immediately

As soon as you apply H. F. you will find that the itching is immediately relieved. You should paint the infected part with H. F. night and morning until your feet are well. Usually this takes from three to ten days, although in severe cases it may take longer or in mild cases less time.

H. F. will leave the skin soft and smooth. You will marvel at the quick way it brings you relief; especially if you are one of those who have tried for years to get rid of Athlete's Foot without success.

GOODMAN LEADS NATIONAL LOOP

Cincinnati Star Regains Batting Supremacy With Slugging Feats

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Ival (The Terrible) Goodman, No. 1 walloper of Cincinnati's Reds, rolled up his sleeves and went to work on National league pitching talent during the past week, and this is what happened:

1. He regained the lead in the league's home run derby, walloping two during the seven-day span ended with Friday's games, for a season total of 21, to 19 for Mel Ott of the Giants.

2. He climbed into undisputed possession of first place in hitting triples with eight, to seven for Lew Riggs, his teammate, and Pittsburgh's Gus Suhr.

3. His picked up 13 points in his hitting average and took over second place in the loop, behind his teammate, Ernie Lombardi.

4. He climbed into second place in total hits, and continued in the runner-up spot in run-scoring and driving in runs.

Outside of Goodman's slugging spree, the most notable showing of the week was that turned in by Schnozzola Lombardi, who not only held onto the loop hitting leadership but increased his pace-setting margin to 20 points. He connected for five hits in 13 batting chances during the week ended Friday and boosted his mark two points to .361. Goodman, getting nine hits in 14 trips to the plate, advanced to .341, replacing Ducky Medwick of the Cardinals in second place. Medwick fell off nine points to .340.

Trailing the three pace-setters were Herschel Martin of the Phillies and Gus Suhr of the Pirates, deadlocked for fourth with .335; McCormick, with .332; Wally Berger, another Red, with .328; Stan Hack, of the Cubs, with .324; Babe Phelps, Brooklyn, .323, and Harry Danning, Giants, .317.

Mel Ott, the Giants' pounder, although losing the home run lead, continued out in front in run-scoring, with 69 for the season to Goodman's 60, and in runs-batted-in, with 67 to Goodman's 56. McCormick moved nearer the "100-hit club," boosting his total base hits for the year to 97, seven more than second-place Goodman.

The pitching pace also underwent a change during the week, as Bob Klinger, Pirates' rookie, with seven victories and one defeat for the season, took over the lead from the Reds' Johnny (Double No-Hit) Vander Meer. Big Mace Brown, Pirates' relief ace, remained in second place with 11 wins and two setbacks, while Vander Meer, beaten once during the week, dropped out of the top.

Herschel Martin continued to lead McCormick in hitting doubles, 24 to 21, and Ernie Koy of the Dodgers held a narrow edge on Stan Hack of the Cubs in base stealing, with 10 to 8.

BEAU JAMES WINNER OF FEATURE AT ARLINGTON

CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP)—The Calumet farm's Beau James, stepping the fastest five and one-half furlongs of the current Arlington park meeting, won the $2,500 added Hyde Park Stakes for two-year-olds before 25,000 spectators today.

Beau James, clocked in 1:04 4-5, three-fifths of a second off the track record set by Crowning Glory, upset the hopes of Tom Taggart's Yale O'Nine, the favorite, which was after a sixth straight victory.

Yale O'Nine could do no better than third, with Allegro of the Dixiana stable taking second money.

WASHINGTON ROOKIE TOUTED AS STELLAR PITCHING PROSPECT

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Ask the average baseball fan to name the lefthander with the most stuff in the major leagues and he'll probably call out anybody but—J. V. L. Krakauskas.

Evidence is slowly mounting, however, that this raw rookie of the Washington Senators has got more than a strange sounding name.

Latest to pitch adjectives Krakky's way is Jimmy Fox, the Red Sox's firstsacker, and a fellow who's looked at a lot of pitching.

Asked about Johnny Vander Meer after the all-star game, Jimmy wound up and said:

"Tell you what, there's a lefty down in Washington who's got him licked in every way except one. And that's control. That kid is faster and he's got a better curve too."

More stuff than the man who hurled two consecutive no-hit games?

"Sure," said Jimmy, "he's one of the fastest fellows who ever threw a ball."

That isn't the opinion of only one authority either. There's Bill McGowan, the American league umpire who's been gazing at balls and strikes for years.

"He's terribly fast," said Bill, "I think he may be faster than Lefty Grove was in his prime, and brother, that's fast."

Yet, possessed of speed and curves, Krakauskas has been a failure with the Senators this year. Control has been the trouble.

Krakauskas is a tow-headed, bow-legged 200-pounder from Hamilton, O. He was with Trenton last year where he struck out 184 would-be hitters.

With the Senators this year he's won but a single game while losing two and is so flighty Manager Bucky Harris trembles when he starts him.

Krakky has hurled 16 innings and has walked 24 batters, but—he's whiffed 15. That's walking one or two an inning and striking out one an inning.

"He either walks them or fans them," said Bucky, "but someday that boy's going to get control and he'll be one of the greatest lefties in the business."

STOCK MARKET DEALINGS QUIET

Buying In Aircrafts Brings Mild Support For Other Selected Issues

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Buying in aircrafts brought mild support for other selected issues in today's stock market, but the recovery struggle was difficult for many recent leaders.

Among favored stocks gains ran to a point or so at the close, although numerous minus marks were in evidence.

Dealings were relatively quiet throughout, with transfers approximating 600,000 shares, the smallest turnover since June 18.

The list got off to a rather ragged start. The lack of selling urgency, however, apparently tempted some traders to try for at least a moderate rally on the theory yesterday's slide, the widest since the sharp upturn started June 20, may have provided the "correction" which market technicians claim is necessary even if the long-term direction is upward.

Boardrooms were only sparsely populated as most commission house customers expected little in the way of any definite move either way during the brief proceedings. The idling ticker tape confirmed this opinion.

The appetite for aviation shares seemingly was spurred by the belief of some the new federal civil aeronautics act would contribute a stabilizing influence for air transport companies and result in heavier plane building and greater passenger traffic.

Nibbling at the steels was in line with prospects for a substantial upturn in mill operations next week after the sharp drop coincident with Independence day suspensions. Motors came forward at the finish.

Coppers held fairly well despite indications the bloom had faded a bit from the exceptional demand for the metal in the past several weeks.

Bonds and commodities were slightly mixed.

ORLEANS COTTON PRICES DECLINE

Profit Taking By Recent Buyers And Week-end Liquidation Are Causes

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—(AP)—Cotton prices receded more than 50 cents a bale here today under profit-taking by recent buyers and week-end liquidation. The close was steady at net declines of 11 to 13 points.

Foreign markets were about as due but there was little incentive during the short session and trading was limited to evening up commitments for over the week-end.

July contracts closed at 9.03 bid; Oct. at 9.04; Dec. at 9.13, Jan. 9.13, March 9.18 and May 9.21.

Reports from the interior said the demand for spot cotton continued active but that offerings were poor in most sections. Weather conditions over the belt were mostly favorable and served to offset the advance in securities.

The turnover yesterday was 54,100 bales and open commitments 381,600 bales, an increase of 2,700 bales over the previous day.

Exports totaled 5,573.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 11 to 13 points.

GRETNA WINS PAIR IN STATE TOURNEY

BATON ROUGE, La., July 9.—(AP)—Shutout pitching by Ray Radovich and Merrill Scherer enabled Gretna to win two games in the opening day program of the Louisiana state semi-pro baseball tournament. The victories, both by 4-0 scores, sent Gretna to the semi-finals.

Radovich, who will be a sophomore at Louisiana State university next fall, hurled a one-hitter to blank the Camp Beauregard CCC nine. Radovich started Gretna's winning rally in the fifth with a single and scored the first run in a spree that brought Gretna all its scores.

Scherer struck out seven and allowed only three hits to defeat Hahnville in the last game of the day. Pete Ammen's home run within the park with a man on base gave Scherer pleny of margin.

Hahnville won the first game of the afternoon, nosing out Union, 5-3.

Norco, 1937 runner-up, meets Gramercy in the first game of a double header tomorrow. In a second game Covington plays Algiers. The Baton Rouge entry, defending champions, drew a bye to the semi-finals, which will be played Saturday, July 16, with the championship game set for July 17.

Winner of the Louisiana tournament will play the Mississippi champion in a regional series with the winner to enter the national semi-pro congress championship at Wichita, Kan., next month.

A TRIBUTE TO JAMES A. NOE

From the people of your district

And the people of all Louisiana

As but a small acknowledgment of our deep appreciation of you and the principles for which you are fighting, we offer this testimonial of our faith, in you and that for which you stand!

By your courageous single-handed fight in the legislature for honest, efficient and clean governmental administration, you have won the hearts, the loyal support and the admiration of the people throughout the state.

As citizens of your district---

We feel that you are saying to us here that, "....political waste and corruption must be eliminated, that our heavy burden of taxation must be reduced."

As your friends---

Like Colonel Bill Kennedy, the New Orleans veteran who has volunteered to go to "war" for you, and as admirers of your governmental and political principles we wish for you every future attainment in your career of service to the people of Louisiana.

This complimentary advertisement is inserted without the knowledge or consent of Senator James A. Noe by a group of his friends, who although unable to subscribe their names are nevertheless loyal and faithful to his principles.

The Sundial

Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of.—Benj. Franklin.

By Eve C. Bradford

POPPING of firecrackers on the Fourth of July is the annual reminder that the first fine flush of summer is over. The Greeks may have had a better word for it, but we call this the season of summer lassitude—a mental and physical torpor always associated with the stay-at-homes. All the old familiar haunts are deserted with the annual exodus depleting the social ranks to such an extent that a foursome of bridge is now well nigh impossible.

The chief topic of conversation when two or more are gathered together is travel. Almost everyone we know has planned a summer trip. They are departing daily for Europe, South America, Alaska, Mexico, the Great Lakes, the mountains. Far be it from us to attempt to tell you what to wear, what to see and how to travel, how to avoid seasickness. However we do recommend for your consideration a bit of advice on foreign travel by Thomas Jefferson, that erudite and cultured Virginia gentleman who could give instruction on every subject from architecture and botany to the rearing of young ladies. Said Mr. Jefferson: "The only way to see any city is to savor it slowly, giving it time to sink in. The first thing to know is where you want to go, what you want to see, and to select intelligently. Don't load the memory with trifles, fatigue the attention and waste your time. When you are doubting whether a thing is worth the trouble of going to see, recollect that you may 'never pass that way again' and will always regret not seeing it."

Maud and Carolyn Stubbs and members of their Caribbean sea cruise party are marking time, waiting for the thrill that comes when they hear the words, "All ashore that's going ashore." On the steamer Toloa they will sail away with Jane Dawkins, Jane Terzia, Jennie Bell Fudickar and Louise Gray of this city, Mrs. E. S. Maupin and Mrs. Will Spann of Vicksburg, Miss., and Jerry Williams of Columbia, S. C., Elizabeth Glassell of Belcher and Seneca Anderson of Memphis. Their itinerary is practically the same as that of another Monroe party sailing on the Ulua, from New Orleans yesterday. They are off for Havana, Cristobal, Canal Zone, and Almirante, Panama, Tela, Honduras. They will go by rail from Cristobal across the isthmus to Balboa, with stops at Gatun locks, and luncheon at Hotel Tivoli on the Pacific ocean.

William Grasse had tucked away in his suitcase when he walked up the gangplank of the Ulua a handsome dressing robe, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Masur and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Davis, who walked with him, carried handsome leather bound diaries. They were bon voyage gifts from friends who gave them a grand send-off Thursday night at Pine Top where a round of toasts was proposed for a happy voyage after everyone had dined copiously and well on barbecued chicken.

White ribbons of pavement and gleaming highways beckon Fred and Lillian Williamson today. They are off for Niagara Falls to attend the unveiling of a Kiwanis "peace memorial" Friday, July 15. Fred will deliver the dedication address, as the representative of the Louisiana-Mississippi district of Kiwanis International. On the way they will make a tour of the picturesque Great Smokies in eastern Kentucky, and will travel by way of Pittsburgh and Erie, Pa., to the Canadian border. After the ceremonies at the falls they will go to Mr. Williamson's Canadian home town, Barrie, on the shores of beautiful Kempenfeldt bay. Afterwards they will visit a brother, A. Edmund Williamson in West Orange, N. J., the first reunion in 12 years. Lillian plans to remain for a couple of weeks in the east, and will visit Miss Sue Hefley at New London, Vt., and Miss Chloe Harshbarger, in Philadelphia. On the way home she will stop at Norfolk, Va., to see her sister, Mrs. Glendon E. Boothe. She plans to visit historic Williamsburg, Va., and make a trip through the Shenandoah valley before returning to Monroe early in August.

Carrie Dee Drew stood on the deck of the steamer Vulcani watching the shores of home fade away when she put out to sea last week from New York for two months of foreign travel. She will visit such glamorous places as the Azores, Gibraltar, Algiers, the lake districts of Italy and then on to Vienna, Budapest, Prague, Berlin, Paris, Holland, London and Scotland. A long string of shining days stretch out before her with the return trip home on the Queen Mary a grand finale.

If home loving hearts are really the happiest the cup of joy simply overflows here in Monroe where new homes are springing up in every part of the residential section. The Judge Harpers and their three lovely daughters are watching the construction of their handsome new home, soon to be ready for occupancy in Fairview near Island drive.

Al and Frances Huey never let a day pass that they are not on the grounds where their lovely new home has reached the stage when you can get a very good idea of how comfortable and spacious it is going to be. Happy days are ahead for Al and Frances and their handsome sons.

The D. W. Griffiths are moving into their attractive home in Fairview. They have been making their home since their marriage with Elizabeth's parents, Anna Laurie and Dan Breard, at the Breard ancestral home on Riverside, but have cut loose from the family ties insofar as the parental roof is concerned and will henceforth greet their friends in their own home.

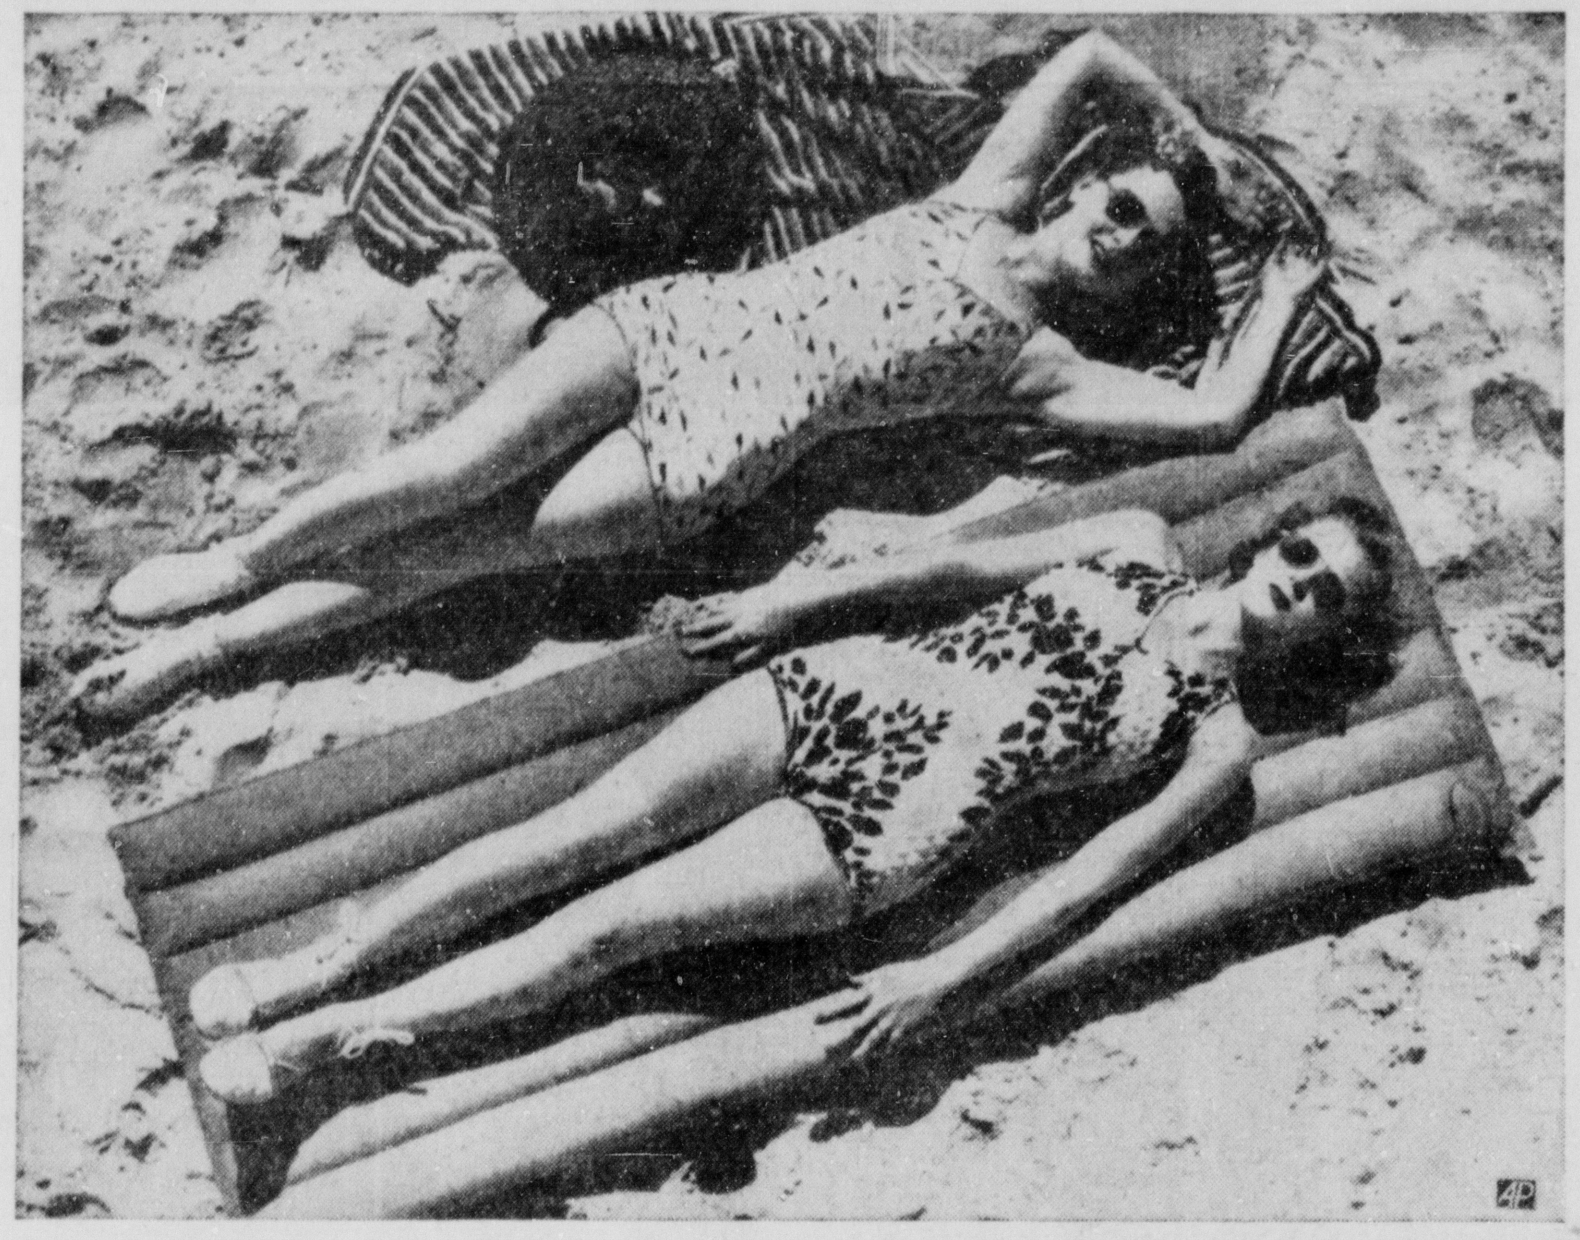
With visions of the good times they had on the Fourth of July when they were kids, Anna Lou Sandridge and Virginia Guerriero packed their children and a few of the neighbor's as well into their automobile and headed for the happy fishing grounds early in the morning. They came home sadder but wiser. The blistering heat of the Fourth was too great for man to be abroad at noonday, as they found out later when applying soothing lotions for sunburn.

Don't think for one minute that Dan Cupid is vacationing. He is on the job and is responsible for some of the most interesting news that has come our way in many a day. Sorry, but we are pledged to secrecy.

HERE ARE THE LATEST SWIM SUITS



The two comely beach-bathers have their eyes well shielded with protective sun glasses. Visibility being what it is, Frances Nolle (left) of Dallas and Evelyn Reade of Yonkers do their bit displaying latest style swim suits, on the sands of fashionable Atlantic Beach club near New York.

Mrs. Paul Fudickar has returned from Shreveport, where she was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. B. M. Hanna. Several social affairs of an informal nature were given in honor of Mrs. Fudickar, outstanding being a dinner party on the Washington-Youree roof with Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wagner the hosts.

Mrs. E. Seymour of south Louisiana is a guest in the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward Seymour, during the absence of her son, Mr. Seymour, in California.

Mrs. Dhu Thompson and son, Karl, have returned from a visit with Mrs. Thompson's brother, Mrs. A. M. Childress, and Mrs. Childress of Houston, Tex.

Delta Kappa Pi Girls Have Excellent Record

Sorority, Since Establishment Here Eight Years Ago, Boasts Many Accomplishments

A resume of work well done is always a pleasure and especially when it has to do with such an attractive group of girls as those who are affiliated with Delta Kappa Pi sorority.

Like the great oak springing from the tiny acorn, Delta Kappa Pi sorority, organized in this city eight years ago with three charter members, Miss Signe Pope, Miss Jonnie Myers and Miss Peggy Bubb, now boasts of a membership of one hundred or more. The first pledges were Mrs. Virginia Buckner Pierce, Mrs. Margaret Chase Williams and Miss Evelyn Rhodes.

The purpose of this sorority is to promote good sportsmanship, a closer relationship socially among young girls, and to elevate and standardize the ideals of young womanhood. The sorority enjoys an annual banquet in June for the purpose of reading in those members who are to take office in September. Its outstanding event of the year is its anniversary dance on October 4.

In addition to its social and cultural activities it has always engaged in philanthropies of a most generous nature. Delta Kappa Pi has its own individual song, "Delta Kappa Pi Girl," composed by Miss Peggy Bubb. The sorority colors are green and white, and its flower is the white rose.

Miss Frankie Elizabeth Watts Becomes Bride Of James A. Michaud At Hodge

Prominent Families United By Ceremony

Catholic Church Scene Of Brilliant Wedding; Couple Will Make Home At Hodge

One of the loveliest and one of the most prominent June weddings in this section of the state was that of Miss Frankie Elizabeth Watts of Jonesboro and Mr. James A. Michaud of Hodge, Thursday, June 30, at eight o'clock in the morning at St. Henry's Catholic church, Jonesboro, with Father J. C. Marsh officiating during the ceremony and later for the nuptial mass.

A solid mass of luxuriant palms formed the background for the ceremony. Tall pedestal vases overflowing with pink gladioli and blue delphinium flanked the altar. The pews reserved for members of the two families and intimate friends were marked with sprays of gladioli and Queen Anne's lace overflowing from crystal pew vases.

A program of organ and violin music was rendered by Mr. Don Breitenmoser of Monroe, and Mr. Ansley Colvin of Jonesboro, several selections being played before the ceremony and during the mass. Mr. H. Bigham of Monroe sang Gounod's "Ave Maria." The bridal party entered to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, and after the ceremony Mendelssohn's recessional was played.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her distinctive gown was fashioned along princess lines with a flattering Marie Antoinette collar embroidered in seed pearls. The sleeves were long and tight-fitting and the sweeping lines of the skirt ended in a long circular train. The finger-tip veil of white illusion was caught to the head, cap fashion, with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a white ivory prayer book from which fell a spray of valley lilies and a shower of narrow white satin ribbons. Her only ornament was a handsome antique gold cross.

The bride's attendant, Mrs. Ed Crowley, of Monroe, was exquisitely gowned in peacock blue net over taffeta, designed bouffant fashion with small puffed shoulder sleeves. A small Kirsten cap of blue net with a small winged off-the-face taffeta brim completed the costume. She carried a sheaf of pink gladioli tied with pink tulle.

The bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Michaud of Hodge and Miss Thelma Maynor of Jonesboro, were lovely in pink net bouffant gowns over pink taffeta, similar to the gown worn by the matron of honor. They wore Kirsten caps of net and taffeta and carried Couquette bouquets of old-fashioned flowers tied with long white satin ribbons.

Carol Michaud, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Michaud, dressed in a navy blue satin page boy suit and frilled white satin shirt, was the ring bearer. He carried a small white satin pillow on which was placed the wedding ring.

Harriet Michaud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Michaud, the flower girl, was charmingly dressed in a quaint, floor length frock of white point d'esprit over pink taffeta made in the off-shoulder fashion, the ruffled neckline caught with sprigs of tiny flowers and the flowing skirt edged with a tiny pleated hem ruffle. Her pink net and taffeta bonnet was a faithful copy of the Kirsten cap and she carried a silver basket from which she scattered rose petals.

Mr. Michaud chose as his best man his brother, Mr. Edward Michaud, and his groomsmen Mr. Joseph Michaud and Mr. Billy Watts.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Michaud left on an extended motor trip. Upon their return they will make their home in Hodge.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Watts of Jonesboro, and is a popular member of the younger set. She was graduated from the Jonesboro-Hodge High school in 1935 and has been employed as secretary for the Southern Advance Paper mill.

Mr. Michaud is the son of Mrs. S. E. Michaud and of the late Mr. S. E. Michaud, who was general manager of the Southern Advance mill. He was educated in Maine and attended the State Normal college at Natchitoches, and for the past several years has been in charge of the finishing room at the Southern Advance mill.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Jean and Elaine Peters, Mrs. Lula Loe, Quitman; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kirkland, Gansville; Mr. Lawson Peters, Natchitoches; Mr. and Mrs. Travis Pardue, Myrna Loy and Freddie Mack Pardue, all of Jonesboro; Mr. A. D. McMillan, Quitman; Mrs. Curtis Robinson, Jonesboro; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barnard and Martha Jean Barnard, Clay; Mr. Gus Johnson, Quitman; Mrs. B. F. McMurry, Clay; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Golden, Mr. Phil Roden, Miss Glenola Nix, Jonesboro; Mrs. Douglas Bond and little daughter, of Hodge; Mrs. Louis Waldrip, Jonesboro; Mrs. Mattie Martin, Wyatt; Miss Jean Sutton, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bond, Mr. Aubrey Bond, Harold and Barry Bond, Jack Bond, Bettie Jean Bond, Margaret Ann Bond, all of Jonesboro; Mr. and Mrs. E. Ventilated Wood Awnings

In order to serve the desire for a permanently attached, rigid awning, we are selling the Hawley Ventilated Wood Awning.

It is a slated awning made of genuine redwood having alternate over and under slats, and obtainable in various colors.

This is an ideal, long-lasting awning of the non-collapsible type. Wood does not attract heat, and is easily installed.

This wood awning, in our opinion, resembles a canvas awning more than anything we have seen and is the most practical of the various non-collapsible awnings on the market.

Our Mr. Underwood just came back from Dallas where he thoroughly investigtated the awning. It is ideal for apartment houses.

The price is only slightly higher than canvas awnings.

Miss Taliaferro And Clifford Putnam Wed

Ceremony Performed At Home Of Bride In Winnsboro; Newlyweds Will Live At Opelousas

Claiming the interest of friends was the marriage on Sunday, July 3, at 9 a.m. of Miss Elsie Lucille Taliaferro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Taliaferro of Winnsboro, to Mr. Clifford Ellsworth Putnam, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Putnam of Ottawa, Kas.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents with Rev. P. B. McCullen of the First Methodist church of Winnsboro officiating.

Simplicity was observed in every detail of the ceremony, performed in the setting of pink Radiance roses and Shasta daisies, with only relatives and intimate friends of the couple in attendance.

Preceding the ceremony the candles were lighted by Miss Christine Taliaferro and Mr. Paul Price, after which "I Love You Truly" was sung by Rowena Rae Taliaferro, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. L. Moore, Jr., of Monroe.

The bride wore a two-piece ensemble with a plaited shirt of blue crepe romaine and a jacket of white and blue braided chiffon. She wore a corsage of gladioli and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna Mae Taliaferro, who wore a beige chiffon, with a corsage of Talisman roses and valley lilies. Mr. Dave Anders served in the capacity of best man.

For traveling the bride wore a navy blue silk marquisette model with accessories of white and navy.

Mrs. Putnam was born and reared in Winnsboro. She possesses many lovely traits of character and will be missed, especially in the musical circle where her beautiful voice and ability as a pianist have always been enjoyed and appreciated. For the past few years she has been associated with the Roan school of dance in Monroe.

Mr. Putnam is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Nutnam of Ottawa, Kas., and is connected with the Continental Oil company of Ponca City, Okla. He is at present located at Opelousas, where the young couple will make their home.

Family Reunions Are Pleasant Occasions

Descendants Of Late John Baker Gather On July 4 At Holum; Many Are Present

Once more the season of family reunions is upon us and nearly every Sunday one may see such gatherings in the pleasant yards of farm houses or at nearby woods or lakes. And what an opportunity for reflection on heredity, environment and circumstance.

Side by side at the long trestle table sit Aunt Emily—smart, aloof, cool in the frock typical of city shops, and Uncle John—kindly, commonplace, heavy of thought and movement, patient tiller of the soil which his great-grandfather homesteaded. Across from them are Aunt Ruth with her correct family of professional husband and two children all fed, groomed and trained according to the latest scientific precept. Aunt Clara with her fat baby in her lap, being fed occasional bits of mashed potato and chicken gravy; her twins, one on either side of her, eyebrow deep in chocolate cake; several larger youngsters about her, obviously uncomfortable in their Sunday shoes, organdies and linen trousers, but on their best behavior.

Here is grandma—short, picture-book old lady with her knitting—a clever new suit, thank you, not socks or afghans. There is Grandma Jones, fat, shapeless, jolly, limping slightly at moments, but as active at welcoming the newcomers and urging more and more food as are the women half her age.

Together the great-granddaughters who are college sorority girls and those who "quit high" to marry the farm boy down the road, wait on table and assist unknown cousins.

Over there the 16-year-old private-school grandson who arrived in a fantastically expensive sport car, and the inarticulate one who is learning to be a mechanic play ball companionably. On the porch the 12-year-old son of Cousin Nell, who believes under no circumstances in inhibiting any child, treads on the ears of the sleeping old farm collie, pulls the vines from the pillars and kicks the slats from the canopied swing that has withstood the courting of two generations.

The day comes to a close. Members of the family reunited every year during the month of July prepare to leave for their homes. Each one finds himself happier and more content after the comparison. The farmer is glad for the simple things of life, the city dweller for the rush of activity, the college-bred girl for the ease and comfort and the country lass for the wholesome existence in which love plays such an important part.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Monroe, La.
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Things temporal in their justly insignificant proportion to the things eternal are brought before us on the fourth Sunday after Trinity, not only in the Collect, but in the entire service. In the Epistle, (Romans 8, beginning with verse 18), we are taught that all created things are now in bondage waiting for the day when the sons of God shall be glorified. And in the Holy Gospel (St. Luke 6, beginning with 36 verse), we find certain rules for passing through things temporal, which are not the rules of our natural character, but, if by faith we mortify the works of the flesh, we shall pass safely through time and be infinitely recompensed in eternity. Services are usual 7:30 and 9:30 a.m. The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m., until 5:30 p.m. You are welcome. The rector.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
"The Church With The Lighted Steeple"
Jackson At Wood Street
Monroe, La.
Walter C. Scott, Minister

A man when he is dead will ask the pastor to hold a whole service just for him. Yet the same man while he is still alive will ignore several thousand perfectly good services that others would be glad to share with him. Don't wait to die before you go to church! Come every Sunday, meet your neighbors and friends there and receive the inspiration and help that comes from fellowship with genial companions. The minister would much prefer holding a service with you than over you. Services are held every Sabbath day at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The sermon themes of the day will be "Following Afar Off" at the morning service, and "Overcoming Our Fears," at the evening hour.

Beginning tomorrow and lasting through Friday there will be a camp for the adults of the Monroe district Methodist churches at Camp Ki-Ro-Li—grown-ups, let the young people attend to the housekeeping and other things at home and come and join others in a week of camp-life filled with inspiration, fellowship, recreation and study. Dr. M. Leo Rippy of Nashville, Tenn., will lead the discussion on "Adult Work in the Church" and Rev. W. C. Scott will teach the course in Bible. Rev. Virgil Morris is to be the camp director and Dr. D. A. Hill will direct the recreation. Mrs. Katie Meredith will be the dietician. The cost is only $5—$1 for regstration and $4 for room and board. You may register through the church office or send your registration direct to the registrar, Miss Chrissie Davis, Columbia, La.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

Pursuant to interest aroused by discussions at a recent meeting of the general assembly and in the furtherance of the views to which we subscribe, we are today to begin a series of messages on the Presbyterian doctrines, practices and policy. "Presbyterian Doctrine" is our topic today. What is the one primal tenet of our faith? Is it well founded? Can it be substantiated by reason and Scripture? The members of our church are urged to attend and others interested will receive a hearty welcome.

"The Mighty Dynamic" is the theme of the evening meditation. The thoughts will center in one of the richest of all Scripture texts.

The Sabbath school begins its sessions at 9:45 a.m. The classes meet in the church, except the Frank P. Stubbs Memorial class, which holds its meetings in the Paramount theater.

The door of the Presbyterian church is open to anyone who believes in Jesus Christ and is willing to labor with us to the promotion of His Kingdom. "Now is the day of salvation." Hence, if this is the branch of the Christian church with which you want to unite, please come with us today.

Now Walks Miles Every Day In Her Work; Feels Fine

Given New Health By Gly-Cas' Amazing Action; Pain Has Left Her Limbs, Feeling Fine.

"I would not take anything for what this new Gly-Cas has accomplished in my case," said Mrs. Blanche Porter, 1005 Mill street, Lake Charles, La. "Years of constipation had allowed my entire system to accumulate poisons. My stomach became badly affected and indigestion and gas would cause me terrible suffering soon after eating, regardless of my diet. Often I could hardly get my breath and my heart would palpitate until it would actually scare me. My kidneys were disordered too. I became worried over my condition as medicine after medicine had failed to help me. And when I began to hear so much praise for Gly-Cas I thought it surely must be one medicine that was different from the others—and it was just that."

"Suffering people should not hesitate in giving Gly-Cas the opportunity to restore them to good health," continued Mrs. Porter. "Soon after I began Gly-Cas I could eat the foods I wished and enjoy my meals without any suffering afterwards. My kidneys were regulated, I get perfect sleep every night, have plenty of energy and each morning I am ready to go out and do miles of walking in my insurance work. I would not take anything for what Gly-Cas has done for me. Too much praise cannot be given Gly-Cas for it gives results when all else fails."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. —Adv.

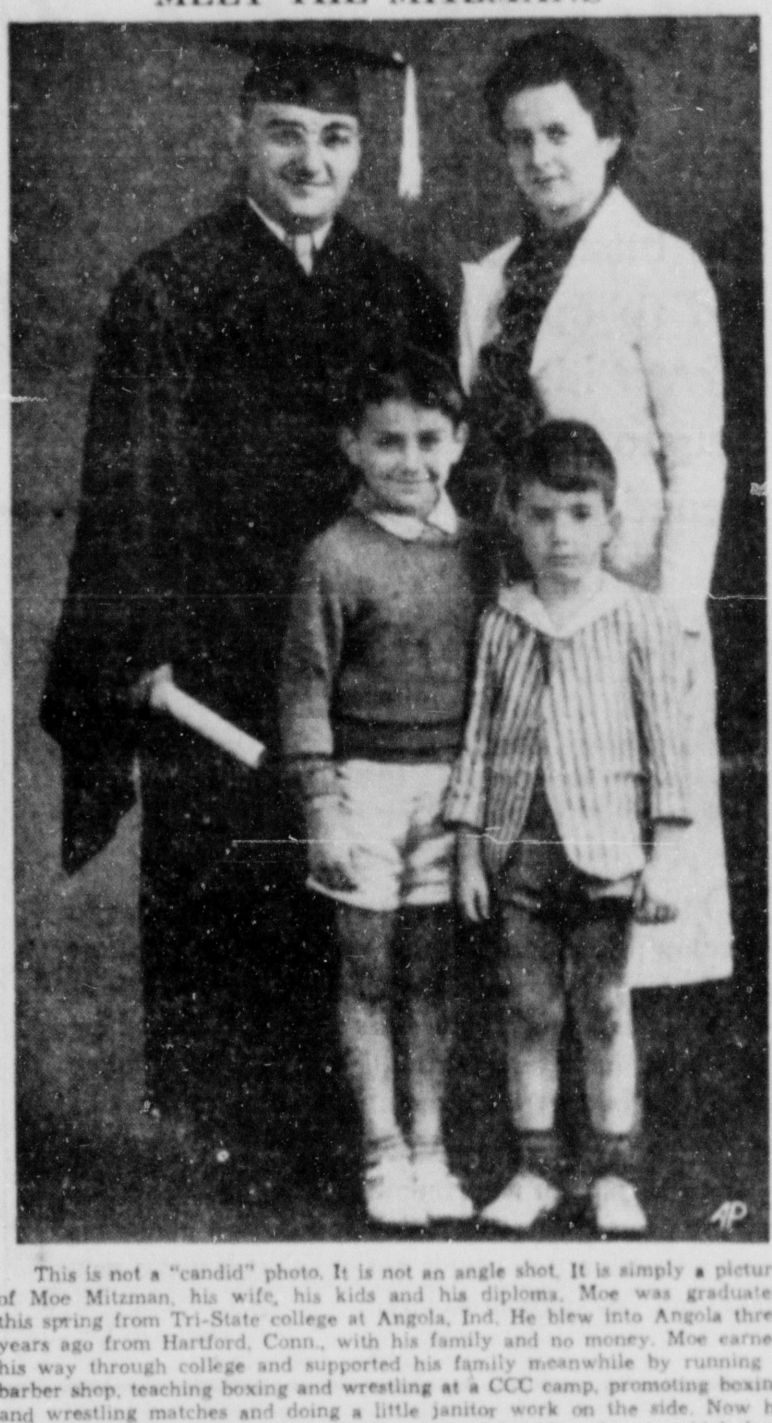
MEET THE MITZMANS



This is not a "candid" photo. It is not an angle shot. It is simply a picture of Moe Mitzman, his wife, his kids and his diploma. Moe was graduated this spring from Tri-State college at Angola, Ind. He blew into Angola three years ago from Hartford, Conn., with his family and no money. Moe earned his way through college and supported his family meanwhile by running a barber shop, teaching boxing and wrestling at a CCC camp, promoting boxing and wrestling matches and doing a little janitor work on the side. Now he has a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering. As we said before, this is not a very fancy photograph. It just shows Moe with his wife, his kids and his diploma.

CHAPTER VIII

The smartly tailored young woman who had talked with Papa Anton was in the dressing room when Constance went down to change into her last costume.

One of the other girls—the red-haired one with the sultry eyelashes and sulky mouth—was saying to her, "How should I know? We thought you'd sent her as a stand-in for Lucille."

As Constance hesitated at the entrance, the newcomer turned and said with quiet authority, "Oh here you are! I am Elsa O'Dare, Mr. Anton's assistant. . . . Suppose we step in here for a few minutes."

Inside the small office beyond, Miss O'Dare shut the door and faced Constance curiously. At close range she seemed older than she had upstairs—a little tired; but very much alive and sure of herself, and exquisitely groomed to the last detail. Her eyes, which were a clear, cool green, were penetrating, but not entirely unfriendly.

"Now," she began quietly, "perhaps you had better begin by telling me who you are, and just what you think you're doing here. I happen to remember," she went on, "although Mr. Anton did not know, that gray coat you wore in here could not possibly have been listed for the show today, because it was sold several days ago. It was the only one of its kind, and it has not been returned to the store."

When Constance continued to hold her silence before the utter absurdity of any explanation she could offer, Elsa O'Dare went on, "I shall have to insist on your telling me how you came to be here displaying a coat that we had sold"

"You sold it—yes," Constance said. "To me."

"Do I understand—? Of course some of our competitors have used inspired tactics from time to time"—Elsa O'Dare's eyes were like green ice—"just whom are you representing?"

"Myself."

The situation was so incredibly fantastic that Constance was beginning to enjoy it. Miss O'Dare's beautifully manicured hands moved in a gesture of complete frustration.

"Well," she said with something almost like unwilling amusement, "after all, this is our show, you know. Do you mean to tell me—wait a minute!" Her eyes narrowed. "That coat was sold as part of a trousseau. I remember because it was part of a rather large order—so large that the saleswoman who handled it was quite set up about it. . . . And the customer who bought it was to be married today."

"Yes," Constance said. "I was to have been married today. But we—I—"

* * *

"I've seen you somewhere before." Elsa O'Dare was studying her with a meditative attentiveness. "You were wearing blue—just the shade of your eyes. . . . Of course! The Portrait of a Lady in Blue. . . . And there was a squib in Danforth's column in the Dispatch—something about your engagement to Derek Manthon. The girls in my department thought it terrifically romantic. And still"—perhaps noticing Constance's piteous attempt at self-control, she broke off and finished swiftly, "Suppose we let this drop for the present. You—"

"No," Constance said more steadily than she could have believed possible. "I think we'd better clear this up here and now, Miss O'Dare. I came here to meet a Mrs. Major for lunch and talk about a job. Since my—my wedding had to be postponed, I wanted something to do for a few weeks."

Constance was finding it strangely easy to explain to this quiet young woman with the candid green eyes which could be at the same time so piercing and so kind.

"That order at your store was a large one, Miss O'Dere—large enough to swallow up my whole bank account. . . . Well, Mrs. Major didn't turn up. I was just beginning to realize that that job was definitely out when Mr. Anton mistook me for one of your models. And—well, I thought, 'Why not, if I can get away with it?' "

Elsa O'Dare sat for a moment digesting this. Then she threw back her head and burst into peal upon peal of unrestrained mirth.

"Well!" she gasped finally, wiping her eyes. "I imagine advertizing is about the insanest business any woman can be mixed up in; but my wildest experience never prepared me for anything like this. . . . Well, I'm certainly not going to shed any more tears over it. Of course you did put us in a spot about that coat. On the other hand, we could also have sold the other costumes you modeled several times over. . . . You want a job?"

"Like the very devil," Constance told her.

"All right!" Elsa O'Dare got up with one of her characteristically clean-cut decisive movements. "Lucille won't be out of the hospital for weeks. You've bought it. . . . Now you've got one more outfit to model today, haven't you? Better—"

* * *

She broke off, her green eyes suddenly dubious.

"I suppose you know that your final display is a wedding outfit, don't you?" she asked.

"I know," Constance nodded.

Elsa O'Dare said with the nearest approach to hesitation Constance had seen in her manner. "This show is really important to me. We're staging it rather elaborately, you know—bridesmaids, pages, wedding march—all the trimmings—"

"I know," Constance said dryly. "Everything but the groom."

"You wouldn't let me down, would you? It may be a little—I mean—"

"Don't worry. If I'm tempted to hysteria, I shall remind myself that my telephone bill is due tomorrow."

Constance did not know that as she passed, a little pale in her white velvet and gossamer veil, sentimental old ladies wiped their eyes, young girls dreamed, and men looked thoughtful.

Her thoughts, if it were possible to report them coherently, might have run something like this: "I wonder if I ought to walk a little faster. . . . What would Derek think if he knew I was having a wedding all by myself—and a fashionable one, too? . . . But I mustn't think about Derek. . . . The bridesmaids look marvelous in those posy-garden frocks and bonnets. . . . Derek would have liked a big wedding. . . . I mustn't think about Derek. . . . Now if the pages don't forget to lift my train when I turn. . . . I wonder what Derek is—I must not think about Derek. I promised Miss O'Dare. . . . Think about my telephone bill. . . . Oh, Derek dear, it was to have been just about this time!"

When it was over, and Constance had taken off her wedding finery, she found Elsa O'Dare waiting for her in the little office off the dressing room.

"Before you decide to go into this, Miss Maidwell," she said, "I want you to understand exactly what you're getting into. The publicity department of an establishment like ours is no place for people with tender sensibilities. We are tuned to a pretty high tension; and people who are hurried and worried seldom have time or inclination to consider other people's feelings very tenderly. . . . You, like every one else in the department, will be a constant target for criticism, fault-finding, buck-passing, and back-biting from other departments all over the plant."

"I suppose the only answer to that is that I can take it," Constance said.

"You'll have to. Sometimes it's like living in a psychotic ward. . . . Personally I rather enjoy it"—Elsa O'Dare grinned a surprisingly boyish grin—"perhaps because I've grown up with it. Perhaps because I'm Irish and like a fight. . . . I'm telling you this because you seem to have had a rather different background from most of our girls."

"I think I'd like to try," Constance insisted.

She went home with instructions to report at Bartlett's at 8:30 tomorrow.

Her first day in the store left her a little giddy with all she had seen and experienced.

After leaving her bus at the corner, she almost ran the half block to the apartment house, hungry for the letter from Derek that she hoped would be waiting for her.

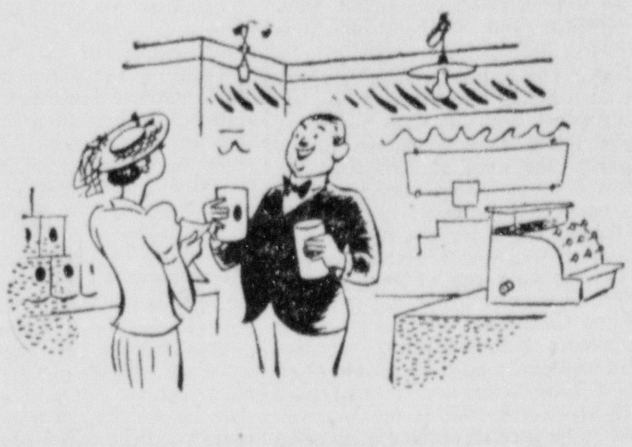
The Story of OD and AD and the 2 STORES

OD and AD wanted to go into business for themselves. They decided to open retail stores. But they had different ideas as to how they should get customers. This is the story of what happened.

How OD and AD Opened their Stores



OD believed that the way to get customers was to sell at low prices, and that the way to sell at low prices was to keep his expenses down. So he spent as little as possible in fixing up his store. He said he was not going to "waste" money on "trick lighting" and a "fancy front." He bought large quantities of a few lines of merchandise, because that way he got them cheaper.

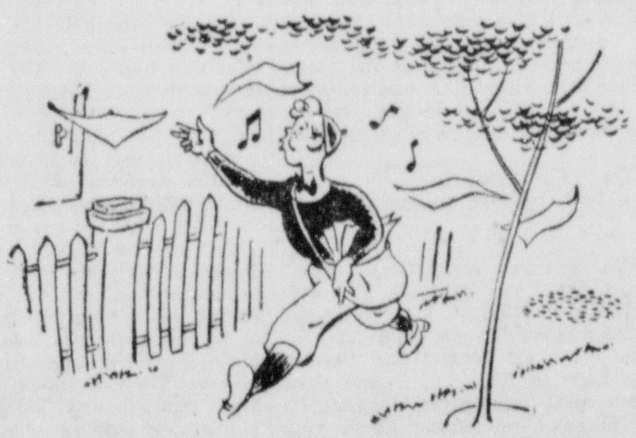
Then he put an assortment of his goods into the windows, but because he had done so little to make his store attractive, few people noticed that it was a new store, and few came in to buy.

AD decided that the first thing he must do was to make his store attractive to customers. So he had it painted throughout in cheerful colors. He completely changed the windows and front, and he put in fixtures that flooded the whole store with light.

He chose merchandise well-known by name to the public, and bought smaller quantities of many lines, thus giving customers a greater selection. He arranged his stock in the store to make shopping convenient. He put in window displays of his most interesting merchandise—and changed them frequently.

Because his windows and his store were so attractive, many people stopped to look, and enough people came in to buy so that AD's goods sold quickly and he was soon ordering more of many items.

How OD and AD went after Customers



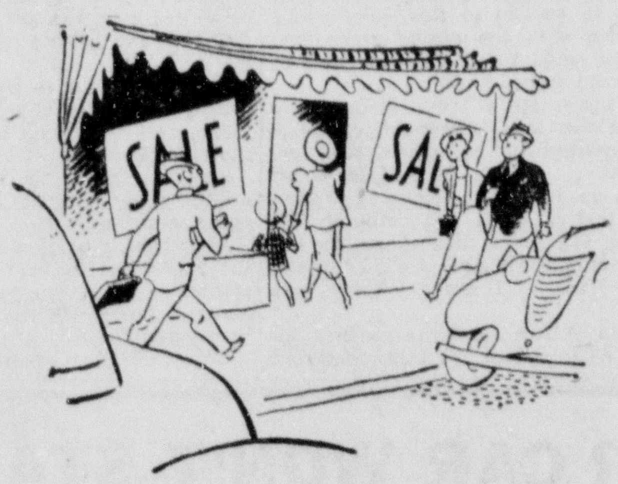
OD soon found that he could not get the customers he needed from those who passed by his store. So he had circulars printed and hired boys to distribute them from house to house. Sometimes they put them under the door or into the mail box, but often they threw them on the porch or into the yard, and many were blown away. Also, OD found it was a slow and costly way to tell his story, as in a whole day a boy could cover only a few hundred homes.

OD was disappointed to find that after all this work and expense, only a few more people came to his store.

AD decided that the more people he could tell about his merchandise, the more people would come to his store. So he put advertisements into newspapers read by many thousands of people every day. He knew that people were eager to get their newspapers to read the news. Therefore, his advertising was more likely to be seen in a paper people wanted to read. Also, the newspapers were delivered all over the city as soon as they were printed.

AD found that the more he advertised, the more people came to his store and the more goods he sold and the less it cost him to handle each sale. So he passed on the greater part of these savings in lower prices and better values to all his customers.

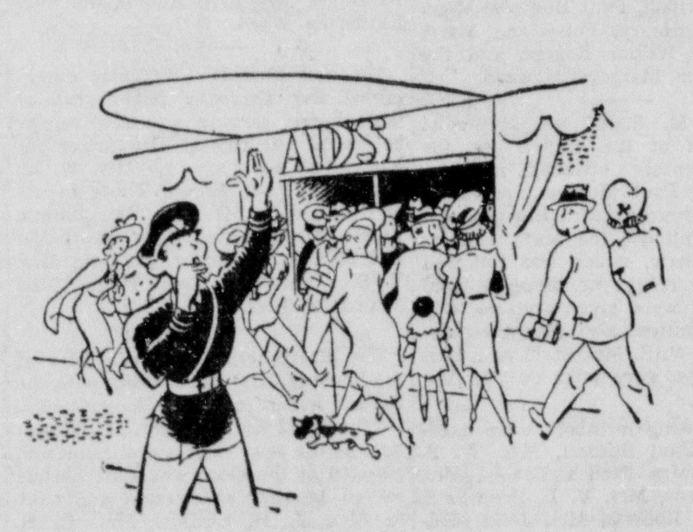
How OD Failed and AD Succeeded



OD found that so few people came to his store that his goods moved very slowly. He could buy very little new stock because his money was tied up. So he decided to have a sale.

He had big signs painted for the front of his store. He had circulars printed and sent boys out to put them into parked cars and distribute them at homes. But the people who came saw so little they wanted that his sale was a failure. At last, he disposed of all his remaining stock to an out-of-town bargain store at less than half what he had paid for it.

OD had had a very unhappy experience, but because he had never advertised in the newspapers, few people in all the city ever knew that his store had opened or that it had closed.



AD found that with more and more people now coming to his store, his stocks moved very quickly. As a result, he was constantly able to have fresh, new merchandise for his customers. He concluded that since people bought newspapers to read the news, he should tell them the news about his merchandise and his store. As a result, AD's advertisements were read as eagerly as any other part of the newspaper. Soon every one in town knew that AD had the newest things.

AD did not make exaggerated statements in his advertising. He just made the truth interesting. Repeatedly AD had to enlarge his store, and employ more people to take care of his increasing business. And, although his expenses were now very much greater, he sold so much merchandise and turned his stocks so rapidly that his store was very successful and was known far and wide for the values it gave its customers.

AD Tells OD How Advertising Serves the Store and Its Customers

ONE DAY OD came to AD and applied for a position. He asked AD how he had built such a fine business and obtained so many customers.

AD said, "First, by making the store an attractive and convenient place to shop, and second, by having the merchandise customers want.

"But these are not sufficient without Advertising to tell the people about them. So we continuously publish interesting, informative, truthful news about our service and our merchandise. And we tell it in the way that reaches the largest possible number of people quickly—through newspaper advertising."

'Robin Hood' Opens At Paramount Theater Friday

They made history and love, Errol Flynn as Robin Hood and Olivia DeHavilland as Maid Marian in the Warner Brothers technicolor production, "The Adventures of Robin Hood," with Ian Hunter as King Richard, coming to the Paramount theater next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. (Center, right and left.)

Technicolor Hit Is Rated Outstanding

Stellar Cast Plays In Spectacular Film Of Famous British Outlaw

IN line with their policy of presenting the pick of screen entertainment to their patrons, the Paramount theater will have as its feature attraction starting Friday, "The Adventures of Robin Hood," a massive technicolor melodrama, produced by Warner Brothers, starring Errol Flynn, and featuring Olivia de Havilland, Claude Rains, Basil Rathbone, Ian Hunter and a supporting cast of some thousand players.

The handsome young Irish star, Errol Flynn, who had such triumphs in "Captain Blood" and "The Charge of the Light Brigade," plays Robin. The beautiful young Olivia de Havilland, who was the heroine of those successes, is Maid Marian. This is their third picture together and is said by previewers to excel its predecessors.

This version of "The Adventures of Robin Hood" is altogether different from the great picture which Douglas Fairbanks made in silent form in 1922. It is filled with fighting—bows and arrows, quarter staffs, pikes and broad-swords being the weapons—and is played in immense and beautiful scenic settings both indoors and out.

Michael Curtiz and William Keighley were the directors and in the supporting cast are such star players as Basil Rathbone, Claude Rains, Ian Hunter, Eugene Pallette, Alan Hale, Melville Cooper, Patric Knowles, Una O'Connor, Herbert Mundin and Montagu Love.

A superb musical score, written by Erich Wolfgang Korngold, who made musical history with his scores for "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and other great pictures, is said to surpass anything ever done before.

Years of research preceded the filming of the great production. All of the vast body of "Robin Hood" literature was fine-combed by the research department of Warner Brothers in order to find out the customs of the folks of the era, what they wore, what they ate, what kind of furniture they had, and all the other details that make for authentic movie props. A special contingent of the department worked only on medieval weapons—bows and arrows, quarter-staves, and pikes, which play a large part in the action of the picture.

The original story and the screen play were devised by Norman Reilly Raine and Seton I. Miller and has several of the well authenticated incidents contained in most of the legends surrounding England's greatest outlaw, but the bulk of the story is original in form. Four of the 11 existing technicolor cameras in the world, each valued at $30,000, were employed throughout the making of this thrilling romance which is described as the outstanding adventure picture of the 1938 film season.

Our earth is not a sphere. Because of the slightly flattened condition at the poles, the technical term for its shape is "oblate spheroid."

All the heroic adventure, stirring romance and endless excitement of the story Robert Louis Stevenson always considered his best is packed into 20th Century-Fox's production of "Kidnapped," with Warner Baxter and Freddie Bartholomew in the leading roles. It will be seen at the Paramount theater Wednesday and Thursday.

Thrill Film Plays Today At Capitol

'Frankenstein,' With Boris Karloff, Produces Chills For Fans

ARCH man-made fiends, life-breathing electrical machines, dangling bodies, human skeletons, ghouls, and wicked hunchbacks all have their sinister places in Universal's shivery, eerie and ghostly, daddy of all the thrill-films, "Frankenstein," that plays at the Capitol today. The weak-nerved patrons have been warned to stay home.

Universal, with its customary pioneering inclinations, has taken the most daring story in all literature—the 18th-century Mary Shelley tale of a man who created a monster—has added the ingredients of a superb cast, truly marvelous photography, fascinating sets, and a heaping portion of some of the best direction since Griffith, and has duly presented the screen with its greatest film-fantasy.

Lest we forget, Universal has long since proved its overwhelming superiority in making thrillers. "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "The Phantom of the Opera," "The Man Who Laughs," "Dracula" and other greats have all come to us under the Carl Laemmle banner, and it is not astonishing that towering "Frankenstein" should bear the tag "A Universal Picture."

There are many scenes in the film that will both literally and figuratively prompt you to clutch at your neighbor's closest arm as the screen very nearly devours you, but there is one in particular that the most blase will never be able to resist. The excited young Dr. Frankenstein, played brilliantly by Colin Clive, and his devilish little dwarf-assistant, Dwight Frye, complete the last surgical operation on their home-made man. They dash to their shrieking electrical inventions and test the life-giving ray . . . then . . .! But it is entirely too precious to give away! Of course you will see "Frankenstein," and anyone who takes the least bit of thrill away from it for you should most certainly be relegated to the basement.

Mae Clarke, the talented little actress who is taking the world's film fans by storm; John Boles of the golden voice, charming manner, and excellent acting ability; sagacious-looking Edward Van Sloan; and chattering Frederick Kerr and Dwight Frye, have many honors to divide in "Frankenstein," but the screen has never seen anything quite like Clive and Karloff in their characterizations. Karloff, wearing the most hideously fascinating make-up in creation, and in their extraordinary performances the brilliant Englishman give you something that you will, in all probability, remember for many a day.

James Whale, as usual, has done a supreme job with direction, and the gentlemen who adapted the story, John Balderston, Garret Fort, and Francis Edwards Faragoh are emphatically entitled to their share of the laurels.

FIELD DAY HELD TO STUDY CROPS

Mrs. McQuiller And N. D. Morgan Give Instruction On Culture Methods

A field day was held at the north Louisiana experiment station Friday under the supervision of Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, home demonstration agent, N. D. Morgan, horticulturist at the experiment station, and Sidney Stewart, superintendent, for the purpose of studying home orchards and the growing of vegetable crops. Approximately 50 people attended the field day. They went to see the watermelons which had different fertilizer treatments. The results to date indicate that a 4-12-4 fertilizer should be used before the watermelons are planted.

Different varieties of watermelons were observed and special emphasis was placed on the Dixie Queen and Tom Watson. Different fertilizer treatments for tomatoes were also observed. From there the party went to the peach orchard where Georgia Bell, Hiley, Carmen, Albertas and J. H. Hale varieties were shown. The control of certain diseases and insects was emphasized. The condition of the peach crop was exceptionally good. The apples were next observed and especial attention was given to the Brilliant apple, which is proving to be a very desirable summer apple.

After having a picnic lunch, the production of sweet potatoes for stock, feed and human consumption was discussed. Louisiana is the nation's leading sweet potato producing region, and at some future time north Louisiana may enter into commercial sweet potato production. The conditions in north Louisiana are adapted to sweet potato production; but before we can successfully put sweet potatoes on the northern market, the methods of growing, grading and marketing will have to be given serious consideration, it was explained.

The growing of peas was also discussed. There are 22 varieties being tested at the station in order to find out the most desirable variety for use as green peas and as dried peas.

D. L. Bornman, Jr., newly-appointed farm agent, was introduced to the group. He discussed needs for farm adjustments and better farm planning necessary, under the agricultural adjustment program.

Everyone enjoyed the field day and went home with new ideas concerning the growth of certain crops.

Harper Urges Drivers To Keep Sharp Lookout Ahead

Judge W. M. Harper of the Monroe city court, in his fourth safe driving talk urged Monroe motorists to "keep a proper lookout ahead" and declared this to be the most important rules of safe driving.

"Keeping a proper lookout involves all of the essentials of the driving senses," Judge Harper asserted. "To fail to keep constant watch constitutes one of the most prevalent causes for traffic mishaps. A driver must keep a never-ceasing, vigilant lookout ahead of his moving vehicle if he would avoid an accident resulting in possible death or injury to himself and others.

"Too many drivers," continued Judge Harper, "turn their attention to the rear in conversing with occupants of the back seats, while driving. Too many drivers take their eyes off the path ahead to exchange greetings with passing friends both afoot and in vehicles. Then there is the lighting of cigarettes and the primping of the hair while driving, not to mention those who drive with one arm guiding the car and the other where it doesn't do the automobile any good.

"All these indulgences seem trivial, to be sure, but if persisted in sooner or later will cause serious mishap, because an accident can happen in the tenth part of a second," the judge declared. "Keeping a close and constant lookout ahead is extremely important when we consider present-day speeds will move a vehicle through our streets at the rate of 50 feet a second. With such speed one must ever be on the alert for playing children who may dart into the street from behind some obstruction, or children that are roller-skating or bicycling on the street. Then, too, there is the 'irresponsible' operator of the 'other' car, commonly known as 'the fool,' who must be guarded against with unvarying lookout ahead. And of course to be safe in observing traffic lights and stop signs one must keep his eyes open or fall into error causing either an accident or a trip to traffic court.

"Driving at night in the city requires all the driving vigilance one can command," Judge Harper continued. "This is obvious because of restricted vision at night. One should watch carefully for vehicles parked on the streets that do not display parking lights. Almost every day produces an accident in the city due to parked vehicles being struck. I believe every one of these accidents could be avoided if the drivers will only watch where they are going. True, at night some are blinded, but if those drivers who become blinded would follow the rule laid down by the supreme court of Louisiana and stop their vehicles when they become blinded, accidents from this cause would no longer happen.

"In other words," Judge Harper continued, "if you can't see, you must stop, even if you are on your side of the road. This rules applies especially where drivers occupying their own sides of the road proceed through dust clouds and strike vehicles coming through the dust on the wrong side of the road. In the law the driving through blinding dust is an act of contributory negligence barring recovery.

"In conclusion," he said, "I might sum up the foregoing advice in these words—'Keep a sharp lookout constantly in the path of the moving vehicle and when vision becomes obstructed, stop.'"

(Editor's note—Next Sunday Judge Harper will conclude his series of five articles on safer driving by discussing one of the most dangerous practices indulged in by motorists—driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.)

LOCAL KIWANIANS ACHIEVE RECORD

Hugh Wallace Returns From Trip Made To Convention In San Francisco

The Mississippi-Louisiana Kiwanis district, one of 29 that are comprised in the entire country, ranked first in showing the biggest percentage of club increase. Also the Monroe club showed the greatest percentage of gain in membership, having added 20 members to the 40 who comprised the club's membership a year ago. Both these matters, of importance to all Kiwanians in the country, were stressed by Hugh Wallace, past Monroe club president, who returned from the Kiwanis International convention in San Francisco, Calif., together with Mrs. Wallace, Friday.

The Wallaces had a highly enjoyable motor trip, going by way of Fort Worth and Dallas, where Mr. Wallace had the pleasure of seeing his nephew graduate from S. M. U. They then went to El Paso and into the interior of Mexico. They visited the Carlsbad caverns, Grand canyon, Boulder dam, Los Angeles, San Diego, Tia Juana, San Francisco, Reno, Salt Lake City and Colorado.

Mr. Wallace said that he was more impressed with the Carlsbad caverns than with anything else he had seen on the trip. He saw it before the government took it over but he said that now there was no comparison to be made of the place before and since Uncle Sam has taken charge. He ranked it far superior to Mammoth cave, or to anything he had seen in America or in Europe.

The Kiwanis convention was attended by 4,099 delegates and was a complete success. Shreveport, Ruston, Rayville and Monroe and West Monroe clubs were all represented.

The Wallaces were absent for six weeks, and will now start out on another trip which will be made to near Jackson, Tenn., where the parents of Mr. Wallace reside.

On August 1, Mr. Wallace will return to Monroe to assume duties to which he was recently appointed, that of assistant postmaster of Monroe.

ADULT METHODISTS WILL HOLD CAMP DURING WEEK

The adult camp for Methodists will be held at Ki-Ro-Li this week. There will be preaching on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 8:30 p.m., and there will be daytime schedules that will keep everyone busy.

BUSINESS, PROFESSIONAL WOMEN TO HOLD PICNIC

The members of the Business and Professional Women's club will hold a picnic at Pine Top, on the grounds of the G. B. Cooley sanatorium, Wednesday night. They will leave Monroe at 5 p.m. and proceed at once to the destination.

All who desire to make the trip are asked to register at once with Miss Mary O'Kelly, at the Palace store.

BAPTIST CHILDREN TO RETURN MONDAY

Superintendent B. F. Wallace, of the Baptist Children's home, will return Monday with a group of 13 children who have been making a trip to Haynesville, Homer, Lisbon, Bossier City and other places in northwest Louisiana for the past ten days. In the Baptist church in each town they have given programs.

A second group of 12 children has been making a trip to Leesville and southwestern Louisiana. They have traveled for the past ten days by bus, as has the first delegation, and they have also given programs in churches. This group has been in charge of Rev. L. A. Materne and will return Monday.

Two more groups will leave for similar trips on July 15.

DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL WILL BE HELD

A vacation Bible school will be held at Gordon Avenue Methodist church daily from Monday to Friday, from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.

It is hoped to have a large enrollment and an entertaining and instructive program will be given.

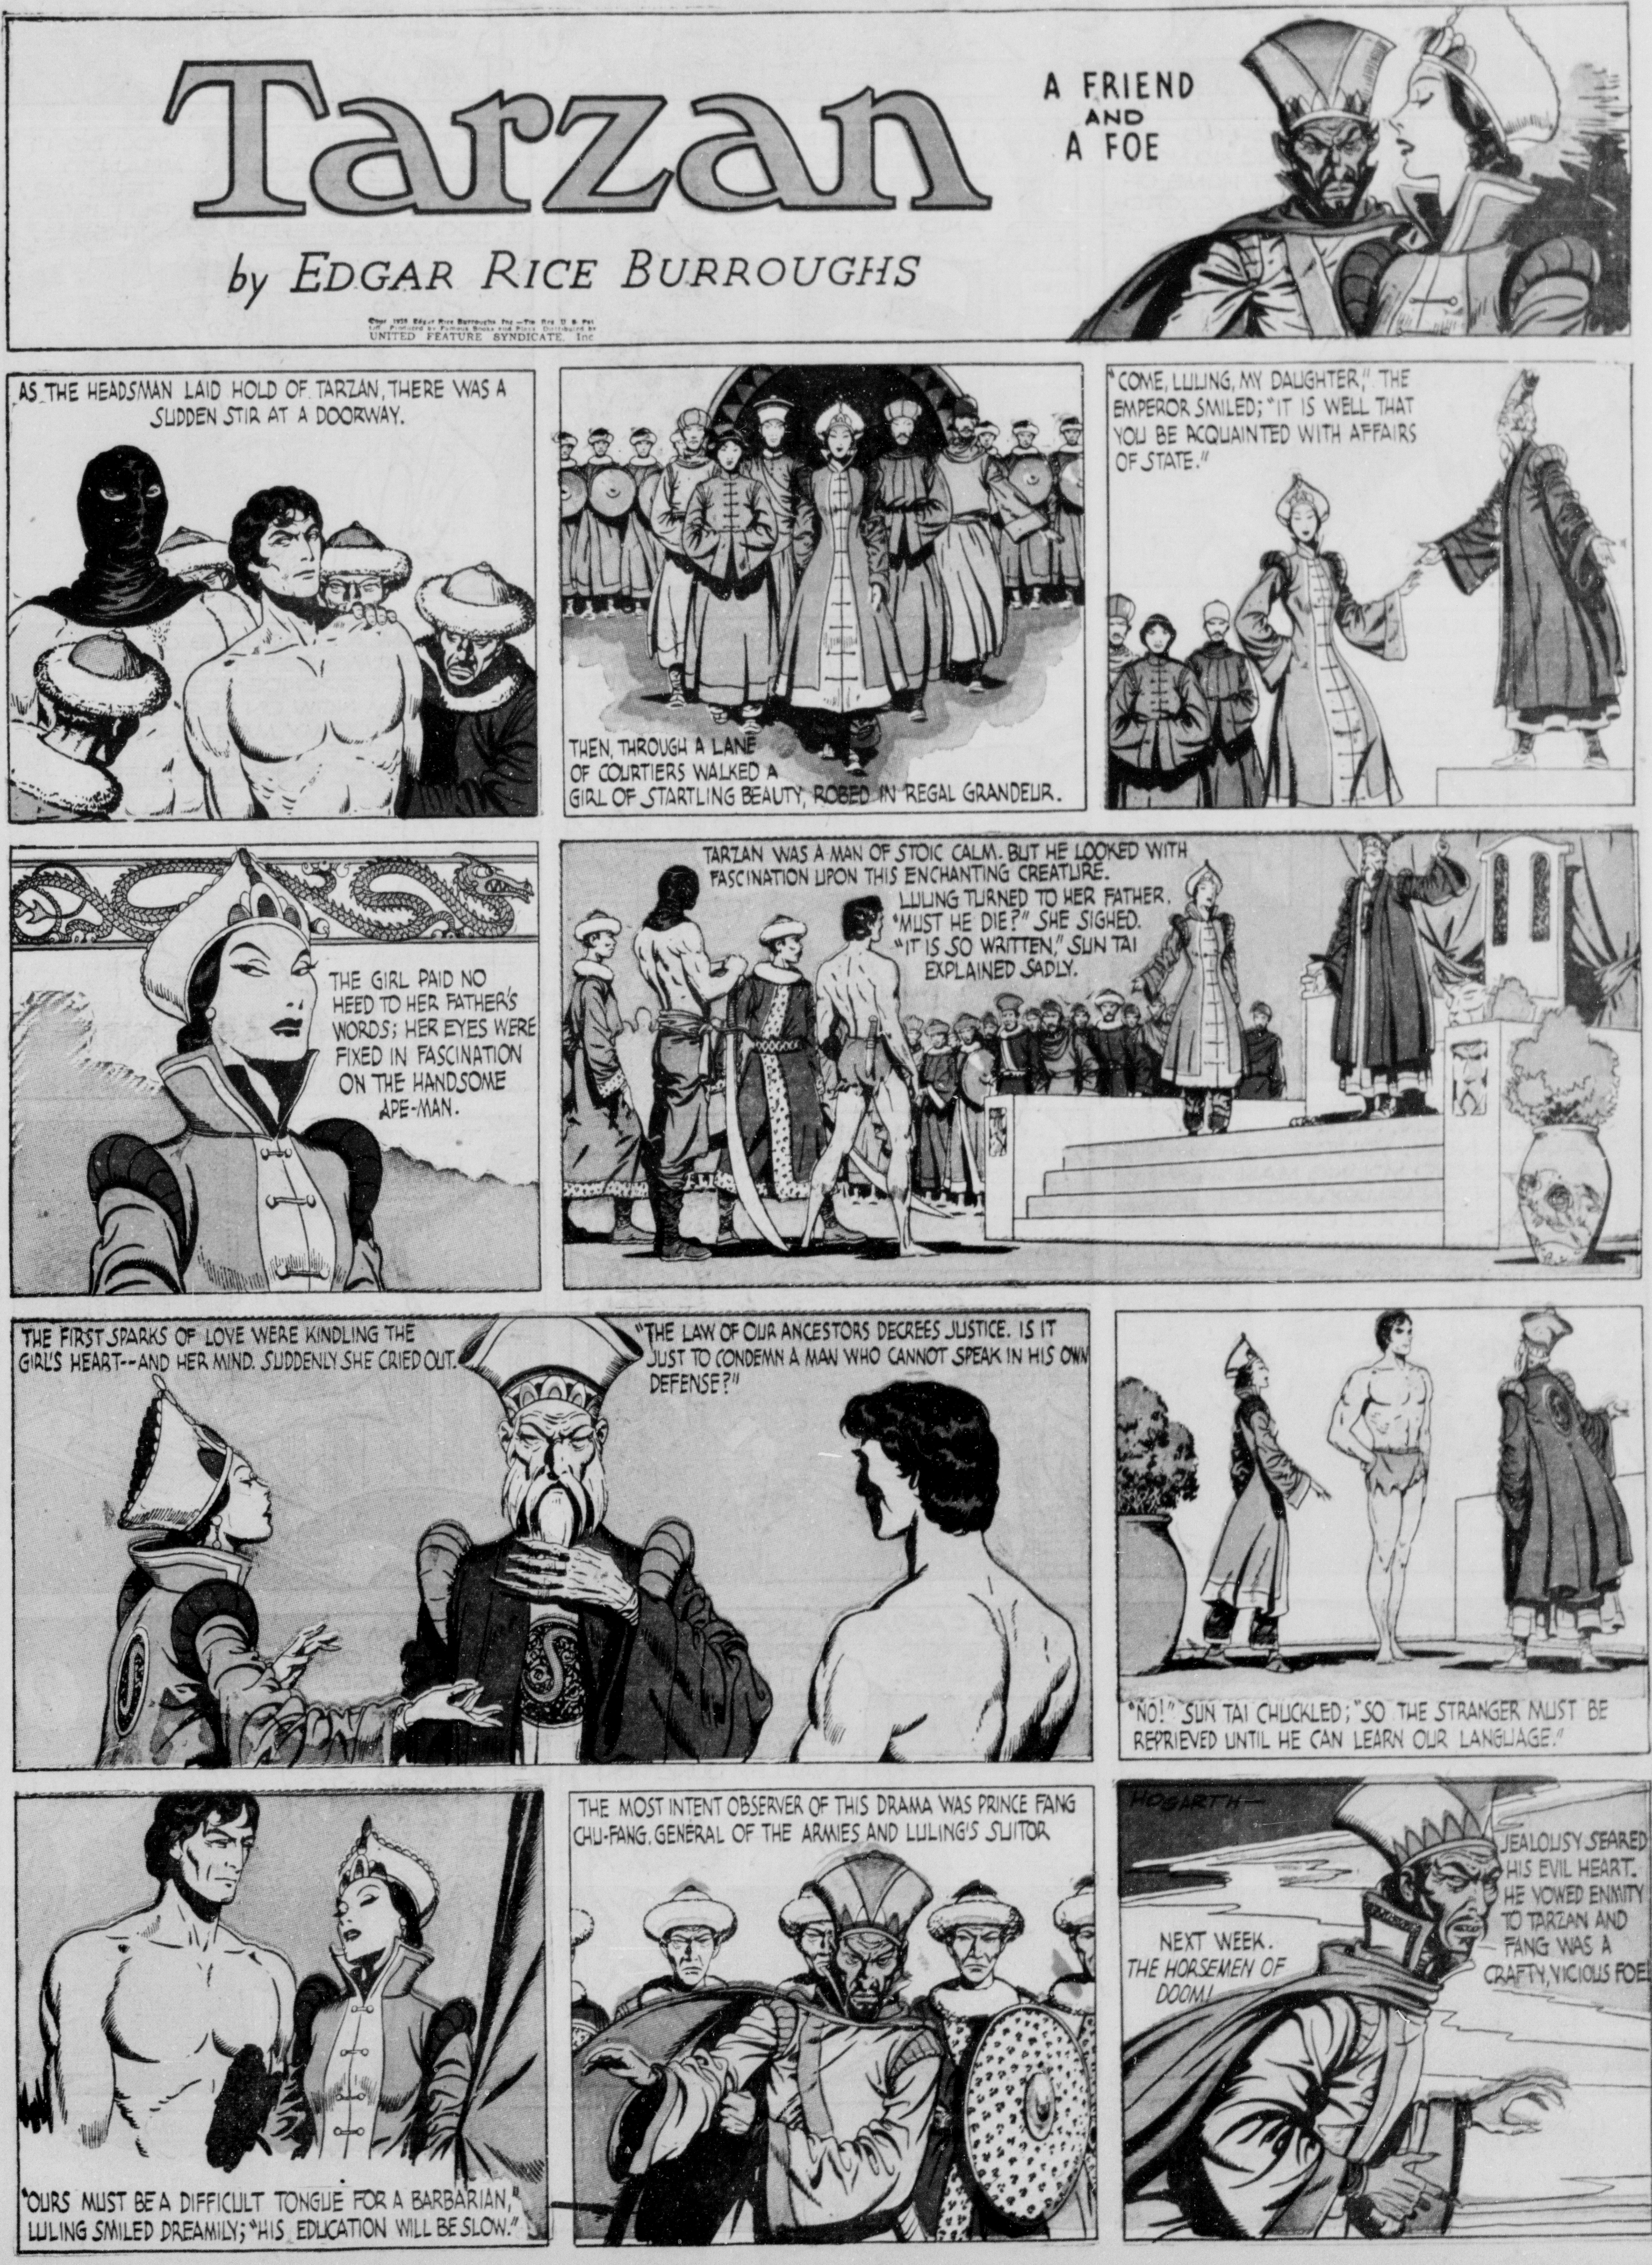
A FRIEND AND A FOE

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Copr 1938 Edgar Rice Burroughs Inc—Tm Reg U S Pat Off. Produced by Famous Books and Plays Distributed by UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE, Inc



AS THE HEADSMAN LAID HOLD OF TARZAN, THERE WAS A SUDDEN STIR AT A DOORWAY.
THEN, THROUGH A LANE OF COURTIERS WALKED A GIRL OF STARTLING BEAUTY, ROBED IN REGAL GRANDEUR.
"COME, LULING, MY DAUGHTER," THE EMPEROR SMILED; "IT IS WELL THAT YOU BE ACQUAINTED WITH AFFAIRS OF STATE."
THE GIRL PAID NO HEED TO HER FATHER'S WORDS; HER EYES WERE FIXED IN FASCINATION ON THE HANDSOME APE-MAN.
TARZAN WAS A MAN OF STOIC CALM. BUT HE LOOKED WITH FASCINATION UPON THIS ENCHANTING CREATURE.
LULING TURNED TO HER FATHER. "MUST HE DIE?" SHE SIGHED. "IT IS SO WRITTEN," SUN TAI EXPLAINED SADLY.
THE FIRST SPARKS OF LOVE WERE KINDLING THE GIRL'S HEART--AND HER MIND. SUDDENLY SHE CRIED OUT.
"THE LAW OF OUR ANCESTORS DECREES JUSTICE. IS IT JUST TO CONDEMN A MAN WHO CANNOT SPEAK IN HIS OWN DEFENSE?"
"NO!" SUN TAI CHUCKLED; "SO THE STRANGER MUST BE REPRIEVED UNTIL HE CAN LEARN OUR LANGUAGE."
"OURS MUST BE A DIFFICULT TONGUE FOR A BARBARIAN," LULING SMILED DREAMILY; "HIS EDUCATION WILL BE SLOW."
THE MOST INTENT OBSERVER OF THIS DRAMA WAS PRINCE FANG CHU-FANG, GENERAL OF THE ARMIES AND LULING'S SUITOR
HOGARTH
JEALOUSY SEARED HIS EVIL HEART. HE VOWED ENMITY TO TARZAN AND FANG WAS A CRAFTY, VICIOUS FOE!
NEXT WEEK. THE HORSEMEN OF DOOM!
